

Pressure Put On Assembly To Levy Tax

Harrisburg, (AP) — The General Assembly comes back to work today after a week's vacation with the administration putting on new pressure for passage of Gov. John S. Fine's proposed $119,000,000 income tax.

A behind-the-scenes campaign was under way by Republican leaders to win favorable action soon on the Senate-stymied income levy.

The controversial measure, proposing a one-half of one percent tax on income, has been held up in the Senate Finance committee since winning House passage on April 18.

Failure of the Republican majority in the Senate to unite behind the measure has stalemated action on it in the upper chamber. Eleven of the 30 GOP senators declared opposition to the tax forcing GOP leaders to withhold it from a floor vote.

The 11 dissenting Republicans plus the 20 Democratic members all against the tax, would be more than enough to defeat the bill. A total of 26 of the 50 Senate votes are needed to pass legislation.

A host of other legislative problems also face the lawmakers when they return today to resume work. They adjourned all of last week because of the Memorial day holiday.

After completing sessions this week, they will again go home for a full week until June 14. Prior commitments by local hotels with the Order of the Eastern Star, which is holding its annual convention here next week, left no rooming space available for the lawmakers.

These delays are serving to make lawmakers in both houses yearn for a quick ending to the 1951 session. The session already has developed in the longest since 1941.

Lawmakers are complaining their regular jobs are being neglected and say also they are needed at home to help campaign for the July 24 Primary election.

This factor, plus accumulating appropriations demands, are said to be increasing the chances for favorable action eventually on Fine's proposed income tax.

Pennsylvania school teachers won House committee approval recently of a salary increase bill which will cost some $26,000,000 more than provided in the budget.

Fine says also State workers are badly in need of a cost-of-living wage boost which would cost some $10,000,000.

All of these expenses, he claims, makes passage of his $119,000,000 income tax imperative.

Vieing with the tax problem for top attention in the Legislature this week are the teacher salary bills, a proposal to set up a fair employment practices commission in Pennsylvania, and a move to exempt non-resident workers from Philadelphia's 1½ per cent wage tax.

New York (AP)—Last week's price war between major department stores continued on one front yesterday—at Gimbel's—where the staff claimed Sunday telephone orders exceeded Christmas rush records.

A Sunday phone supervisor said her 14-position switchboard "lit up like a Christmas tree" when the service opened at 1 p. m. It was scheduled to continue until 5 p. m.

The supervisor said telephone shoppers were "looking for everything," including all items reduced after Macy's touched off the price war last Tuesday by reducing some 6,000 items.

Macy's action followed a Supreme court ruling upsetting fair-trade law price-fixing. Gimbel's immediately followed suit and other stores quickly fell in line.

Other major warring stores, including Macy's and Bloomingdale's, were entirely shut down yesterday.

But executives of all stores were preparing for another week of price cutting.

The unanimous prediction was: "No end in sight."

Tax Ghost Revived (An Editorial)

Legislators who have been away from Harrisburg during the Memorial Day week are supposed to return today "refreshed and ready for conciliation or compromise" after a "cooling off" period, according to a mouthpiece for Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association. They are to "heel" to Gov. John S. Fine's "soak the working man" $119,000,000 income tax.

How like the "Crown Prince" of Pennsylvania Manufacturers to use the phrase "conciliation and compromise" when it costs him little or nothing. How like too many people in power to seek by devious means, after once being defeated, to cram—not economy—but spending down the throats of people who they hand-pick for a vicious, ruinous tax.

People of Monroe county have today to rush their wires to Senator Montgomery F. Crowe and all other members of the Senate demanding that "the behind-the-scenes" activity of the Fine administration be hammered down. There must be NO INCOME TAX—NO SALES TAX—just a bit of ECONOMY.

The Senate has already stopped the income tax bill once. Crowe was not only among the group that did it, but he has since shown how to escape an Income or Sales Tax by elimination of senseless expenditures. This week may be the do-or-die test period. Give him and all other senators the benefit of your support. Wire, call or write them NOW. FOR ECONOMIES—NOT TAXES.

Weather Picture Ranges From Drought To Floods, From Heat Wave To Snow

(By the Associated Press)
A heat wave, freezing cold, June snow, parched earth and floods—that was the nation's weather picture yesterday.

Heat simmered much of the East for the fourth straight day. Temperatures pushed the 100-degree mark in the Carolinas. Readings in the 90s were forecast along much of the Atlantic coast south of New England.

Frost and freezing temperatures chilled the Colorado-Wyoming-Montana area. And snow up to a foot deep fell in Colorado.

It was 20 degrees at West Yellowstone Park, Mont., 22 at Ely, Nev. A 25 at Lander, Wyo., and 32 at Billings, Mont., were new records for a June 3.

Southerners looked at their scorched earth and wilted crops, and prayed for rain. Except for a few light scattered showers, none fell.

Southern states from Arkansas to Florida and the Carolinas are in their seventh week of drought. The land lies dry and cracked.

Unless rain comes soon, Arkansas farmers expect to lose half of their cotton crop and suffer serious damage to tomatoes, small grains and pasture land.

In Tennessee, the dry spell is the worst since 1915. Tobacco farmers face heavy losses. Half of the middle Tennessee strawberry crop may be lost.

There was too much water in Nebraska.

Torrential rains for three days sent the Big Blue river flooding over its banks between Crete and Beatrice.

Heavy showers and driving winds swept many sections of Pennsylvania yesterday, soaking thousands outdoors and causing some damage.

Telephone lines in Bradford county and southern New York State were reported out. Towanda couldn't be reached by telephone from some points.

Rain struck Reading in late afternoon and came down in sheets. In the northwest a violent windstorm swept Venango county, blowing down trees and television antennas.

Convicts Kidnap, Rob Bandleader
Los Angeles (AP) — Two escaped convicts who kidnaped and robbed bandleader Gus Arnheim and three other men were back in custody yesterday after five days of precautionary freedom.

Booked on suspicion of robbery Saturday night were Donald B. Robinette, 21, and Edgar Ball Weaver, 29, who, officers said, escaped from Ohio State prison farm last Tuesday.

They were arrested after eluding deputies in a 90-mile-per-hour chase. Finally they hid behind a watering trough in the village of Oak Park north of here and surrendered after officers fired warning shots; ordered them to give up.

Bullets End Honey-Stealing Career Of 141-Pound Bear
Ross Common—A 141-pound male bear, which had successfully looted and destroyed 23 honey bee hives on lands leased by Clayton R. Buss, Madison Ave., Bethlehem, was shot down here last Friday night as Buss maintained a night vigil over the remaining hives.

The bear, with typical penchant for honey, first appeared at Buss' bee sanctuary last Wednesday night, destroying 15 hives. On the next night, the marauder returned again and ruined seven more hives in his search for sweets.

At this point Buss notified Game Protector John Doebling, of Stroudsburg, and Protector, Doebling and Protector Paul L. Failor, of Mount Pocono, advised the apriary hobbyist to destroy the honey-eating bear after investigating the complaint and visiting the hives located just off Route 115 near Ross Common.

C-82 Explodes In Air; Ten Crewmen Die

New Boston, Tex., (AP)—A flying boxcar roared out of the clouds yesterday disintegrated as horrified citizens watched and became a flaming pyre for its ten passengers.

The C-82 exploded directly over this city and bored a burning hole into a cowpasture near Boston, 2½ miles to the west.

"I saw it falling apart in the sky," said Mrs. C. W. Jones, in whose pasture it fell.

Wreckage was scattered for a mile and a half around as the wings and tail flew apart.

Pat Oglesby said lightning struck the plane.

"I heard an explosion and saw lightning at the same time," he said.

The CAA at Texarkana said the plane was from Campbell Air Force base at Hopkinsville, Ky.

It had called the CAA with a position report and flight plan to Fort Sill, Okla., at 1:26 p. m. (CST), shortly before it plunged from the sky.

"I heard the roar of the plane just as it feathered its props, said Marine Sgt. James Owens.

"Then it just fell apart. It reminded me of my days in Korea. It was horrible."

Mrs. Jones said the plane did not appear to catch fire before it struck the ground.

Oglesby said the plane's motors seemed to be at full throttle as it came out of the clouds nose first.

"From all appearances someone was trying to bail out, but I couldn't tell for sure. The fuselage fell straight into the ground, and it made a hole you could bury an ambulance in," Oglesby said.

Oglesby, a mechanic at the Red River arsenal, Beville, said the plane burned so fiercely that they couldn't get the bodies out for 30 minutes.

They saw some parachutes hanging open from the plane, while others still were in packs.

Six Of One Family Drown

Oskaloosa, Ia. (AP) — Six members of one family drowned yesterday when their automobile plunged into the Des Moines river. One occupant of the car was rescued.

The bodies of Lyle Postel, 29, of Waterloo, Ia., his mother, Mrs. Namie Postel, 48, and three of Lyle's four children were recovered.

The youngsters were Richard, 7; James, 5; Mary Jean, 16, and Stanley, 2. The youngest child's body was not found.

Mrs. Dorothy Postel, Lyle's wife and mother of the children, was rescued.

Sheriff Dwight Mateer of Mahaska county said an eyewitness told him that the Postel car passed a truck and semi-trailer rig on a highway bridge approach, rolled onto a soft shoulder, then struck an abutment. It bounced into the air and fell beside the bridge into the river.

Production Act Upheld
Washington, (AP)—Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said yesterday businessmen are being given every consideration in the nation's efforts to reach full defense production and stabilize prices.

He upheld the defense production act, which expires June 30 unless continued by Congress. The aim of controls, he said, is to protect Americans from special interests and sky-rocketing prices.

Johnston was questioned by four members of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, now holding public hearings on whether to extend the act. They were Senators Maybank (D-SC), committee chairman, Capehart (R-Ind), Bricker (R-Ohio) and Moody (D-Mich.)

Maybank asked Johnston if businessmen should not be consulted more on controls affecting them. Business witnesses, among others, have voiced a number of complaints and how they fare under price control.

Johnston replied that his office listens to their advice, and added that the Wage Stabilization board also invites the suggestions of labor and industry on wages.

He also commented that his office has no desire to control profits. Bricker commented that the excess profits law takes care of that.

Capehart wanted to know whether Johnston thought farm prices, for instance, were too high in 1947. Capehart said that farm prices today are 15 per cent less now than in 1947 and that farm income will be about $4 billion less this year than in 1947.

Johnston replied that controls, to be effective, must be just and that no segment of American enterprise can be given special privileges.

Furious Battles Mark Slow Allied Advances Beyond 38th Parallel

New Survey Of Peace Chances Due

Washington, (AP) — The United States, Britain and their Korean war Allies are due to start a new inquiry this week into the possibilities for an early negotiated peace in Korea.

American officials said yesterday there appears to be little that the United Nations Allies, whose representatives meet twice weekly at the State department, can do for peace which they have not already done.

The real barrier, these authorities said, is the declared purpose of the Chinese Communists to gain a total victory by throwing the U. N. Army off the peninsula.

Nevertheless top officials here and in London realize that the war has reached a point — with the belligerent forces disposed once more in the 38th parallel region at which military and political conditions combine to make a settlement practicable if the Reds are ready for it.

Secretary of State Acheson told senators Saturday that the United States is willing to halt the fighting along the 38th parallel "if the aggression would end and you had reasonable assurance it would not be resumed."

Such a statement coming from the Communist side at this time would have been regarded as a peace feeler of the first importance. There is no reason to believe that Acheson did not so regard his own words. They threw open the door to approaches from either the Chinese Communists or the Russians. However, Acheson said yesterday he knew of no peace moves from the Communists.

About the same time there were two other important developments which promised to fill the days ahead with increasing talk of peace, whether or not it is actually achieved. These developments were:

One — Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander in Korea, announced that the "pur-suit phase" of the victory over the Chinese Communist spring offensive had ended. Later he said there was no connection between his announcement and peace moves elsewhere in the world.

Two — From London came word that Foreign Minister Herbert Morrison considers the time right for a new look at the peace strategy of the U. N. powers. He wants them to see whether there is something they can do on the diplomatic front which might employ the present military situation in the interest of peace.

Assistant Secretary Dean Rusk, in charge of Far Eastern affairs, had recently invited the ambassadors of all 13 of the U. N. nations who are members of the Korean policy conference here to come forward with specific ideas on how to deal with the present situation in Korea.

The next meeting of this group is set for Tuesday. This week's second session will be Friday. Diplomatic authorities said that undoubtedly work will begin along lines of the British proposal in one of these meetings.

Allied Artillery Downs Two U.S. Cargo Planes By Mistake; Seven Men Reported Missing

Tokyo, Monday, (AP)—Two U. S. twin-engined C-119 "Flying Box-car" cargo planes were shot down by Allied artillery yesterday while trying to drop supplies to U. N. forces on the eastern Korean front.

Far East Air Forces announced the "tragic error" today and said seven men were missing. Three airmen survived. It was the first time a cargo plane has been lost on a paratroop mission.

FEAF said the big guns failed to stop firing while the planes were in the drop zone. One plane received a direct hit. It disintegrated. The second plane climbed sharply to avoid the flying debris. It was seen to loop and then plunge 3,000 feet to earth.

Capt. James Hill, Chickasha, Okla., pilot of a third plane in the flight, said many parachutes came from the two planes.

"Some of them undoubtedly were cargo 'chutes, but some of them appeared to be personnel 'chutes," Hill added.

Each plane carried a crew of five. Ground parties found the three survivors. They were not named.

The air drops to the front continued despite the incident. Less than an hour later other flights delivered 60,000 pounds of ammunition and supplies to an Allied outfit 15 miles from the first drop zone.

Senator Knowland Challenges Acheson's Assertion Use Of Chiang's Army Perils Formosa

Washington, (AP)—Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) yesterday challenged Secretary of State Acheson's assertion that use of Chinese Nationalist forces in the Korean war might endanger Formosa.

But Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.) called Acheson's contention a valid one. He said it plainly has the backing of the nation's top military command.

The Pacific island of Formosa is the last stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists under Chiang Kai-shek.

The divergent views of the two senators provided a fair sample of the split that has shown more plainly day by day in a full month of inquiry into the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from command in the Far East.

The investigation by the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees began a month ago. Since then the hearing record has grown fat with more than 1,000,000 words, largely on just such disagreements—and the end is not in sight.

Today Acheson returns to the witness stand for a third day of quizzing which is likely to pivot on the Formosa issue and such other points as his testimony Saturday that a Korean settlement might be reached generally on the basis of the 38th parallel if there were real assurance of an end to Chinese and Korean Communist aggression.

MacArthur was fired for publicly advocating a program calling for bombing of Red China's supply bases, a Naval and economic blockade of China, and use of the Chinese Nationalists in the Far Eastern conflict.

Retired Merchant Stages Rehearsal For Own Funeral
Burlington, Colo. (AP) — J. N. Gernhardt, a wiry little 75-year-old retired storekeeper, attended his own funeral service yesterday and, when it was over, said he was well pleased.

He should have been. He planned and carried out the whole thing in the face of many troubles. Gernhardt wanted to be sure, he said, that someone didn't change the routine after his death. So he had yesterday's event recorded and hopes it will be repeated on the proper occasion. And he doesn't expect that to be for quite a spell, he told the mourners.

About 1,000 persons jammed the local armory for the event. Gernhardt, who had cooked the food and held a pre-funeral luncheon for the press and pallbearers, rode from his home to the armory in the front seat of a hearse. His pallbearers carried an empty casket into the building. Gernhardt followed and sat stern faced through the proceedings.

U. N. Forces Approaching Red Buildup

Tokyo, Monday (AP)—United Nations forces smashed deeper into Red Korea today along the twisting, rugged 125-mile battlefield. Pitched battles raged in the east-central sector.

Red resistance slowed the tank-tipped Allied advance to a snail's pace. Gains yesterday ranged more than three miles. But the Communists were getting tougher today as U. N. forces approached the vital Red build-up triangle in central Korea.

"From all sectors of the battlefield came reports of furious, hours-long battles, some of them at hand-grenade range," reported AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky, at Eighth Army headquarters.

He said the Chinese and Korean Reds were making fanatical stands from well-entrenched positions.

The stubborn resistance was apparently designed to give the Reds time to gather forces in their so-called "iron triangle" area of Chorwon, Kumhwa and Pyonggang toward which the Allies are relentlessly advancing," Polowetzky added.

AP Correspondent Jim Becker reported that Allied patrols south of Hwachon reservoir, on the central front, found the bodies of 1,500 Chinese and 700 dead horses.

They were the victims of the sudden Allied counter-offensive unleashed in the wake of the futile Communist mid-May drive. More than 162,000 Reds were estimated killed or wounded in the drive.

Becker said several pitched battles raged on the east end of Hwachon reservoir. The Reds poured out heavy mortar and small arms fire.

Allied forces pushed north from points on the east-central front seized yesterday north and northwest of Inje.

On the central front, above Hwachon reservoir, armored columns ground out gains up to 2,000 yards.

In the west, U. N. forces shoved out of captured Yonchon on the approaches to Chorwon, 13 miles to the north. Two commanding heights near Yonchon were seized. Yonchon is six miles north of Parallel 38.

The Red radio at Pyongyang, Korean Communist capital, asserted last night that six Allied planes were shot down Saturday and 15 tanks destroyed. The broadcast said one U. N. battalion was wiped out in eastern Korea.

On the western front, two key hills were captured about seven miles north of the 38th parallel and a 2,100-foot-high mountain was outflanked.

A 2,625-foot peak, dubbed "Bald Mountain," was captured, lost and won again by Allied infantrymen who pushed Chinese from its heights twice.

While heavily censored, field dispatches were able to say that the eastern and western drives "were made in unison."

Retaining the initiative, Allied forces moved up slowly but steadily on the Communist "iron triangle" in North Korea — the assembly ground of two unsuccessful Red offensives in April and May.

East Borough Class Hold Baccalaureate

East Stroudsburg High school seniors held their baccalaureate service last night in East Stroudsburg Junior High school.

Rev. Norman P. Savage, pastor of First Baptist church, East Stroudsburg, delivered the baccalaureate sermon.

Background of his sermon, "Anchors for the Storm", was Paul's experience on the way to Rome and how during a storm he threw out four anchors and waited for morning.

Each of the four anchors in Rev. Savage's sermon represented a different thought.

First anchor for the storm is a personal faith in God, he said. "It wasn't just a traditional faith Paul had in God. He was conscious of his purpose, confident of his power and comforted by His presence."

Second anchor, he stated, represents the presence of the unseen Christ.

The third the "strength in his knowledge of his secret . . . The Lord had told Paul he would bear witness at Rome; therefore he had a destiny that was assured."

The fourth thought Rev. Savage brought out was the joy and satisfaction derived from accomplishment.

"Among other things that Paul says," Rev. Savage concluded, "are these words: 'I believe God, whose I am and whom I serve.'"

Assisting Rev. Savage during the service were Rev. Harold C. Eaton, who gave the invocation; Rev. William F. Wunder, scripture reading; Rev. Benjamin H. Hostetter, the prayer, and Rev. Frank W. Wingerter, the benediction.

Organ and piano solos were provided by Miss Bettejo Goodall and Miss Charlotte Herman. Under Miss Goodall's direction, the girls' chorus sang "Lift Thine Eyes" and the mixed chorus sang "Send Forth Thy Spirit."

East Stroudsburg High school seniors will receive their diplomas Thursday. Commencement will be held in the junior high school auditorium, beginning at 8 p.m.

New Pupils To Register

Canadensis — Registration of new students at the Barrett township consolidated school will take place tomorrow, according to Supervising Principal Andrew W. Lewis.

Parents are requested to bring the children's birth and vaccination certificates. The registering will take place at the school from 9:30 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Court Surcharges Area Resident

An East Stroudsburg RD man, removed as administrator of the estate of a Hellertown hermit, has been surcharged $650.73 in a Northampton county court opinion handed down by President William G. Barthold.

Frank Klingner, the discharged administrator, was surcharged for what his attorney said were duplication in credits and on interest on $4,630 at four and one-half percent.

Klingner had previously been administrator of the estate of Joseph Dugacki, the Hellertown hermit, who left a $20,000 estate after living in a barn.

Marshal Petain Is Near Death

He D'Yeu, France (AP) — Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, 95-year-old former chief of the Vichy French state, is near death again. A medical bulletin described his condition as "precarious."

The aged marshal, hero of Verdun in World War One, is serving a life sentence for treason in World War Two. Yesterday's bulletin said Petain, imprisoned on this bleak island off the west coast of France, had taken a turn for the worse in the last 24 hours and that for the first time his heart seemed to be weakening.

He had double pneumonia in April and was reported near death then.

WCSA Meets Tonight

Women's Society for Christian Service of the Stroudsburg Methodist church will meet at 8 tonight at the church. Rev. Walter S. Johnston, new pastor, will install officers of the WCSA and the Wesleyan Guild.

Fear Of Lord Is Beginning Of Wisdom, Minister Tells Pocono Township Graduates

Tannersville—A sudden downpour of rain last night had little effect upon Pocono Township High school baccalaureate service. The school auditorium was filled to capacity.

Rev. Garnet L. Zimmerman, pastor of Tannersville Lutheran church, delivered the baccalaureate sermon.

"Fear of the Lord," he told seniors, "is the beginning of wisdom. 'Be careful with your new knowledge.'"

Rev. Zimmerman said behind every man's great achievement lies fear.

"Fear makes us and we begin to wonder what will happen. We begin to care," he continued.

"You must have a fear, or this world will settle down to destruction."

Rev. Zimmerman said citizens should have a fear for the future of America rather than a fear of war with Russia.

"Fear of the Lord would lead us to a better way of life. Fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom."

Rev. Zimmerman was assisted by Rev. John Ferguson, of Pocono Catholic missions, who gave the invocation and benediction; Rev. C. L. Hertzog, pastor of Evangelical United Brethren church, Mclertown, who gave the prayer and scripture reading.

Seniors, dressed in blue and white gowns, marched into the auditorium accompanied by the music of the high school band. Carmen C. Cavuto conducted.

Ann Louise Frailey sang a vocal solo, "Come Unto Him," and the school ensemble, composed of Miss Frailey, Barbara Williams, Patricia Hoffer, Harriet Learn and David Frailey, sang "Heavens Are Declaring."

Decorations for the service were done by the junior class, under the direction of George Learn Jr., class adviser, and Miss Fannie Melhuish, art instructor.

Rev. Johnston Gives Talk To SHS Seniors

Rev. Walter S. Johnston, pastor of Stroudsburg Methodist church, told Stroudsburg High school seniors last night "you have a mark to make in life."

His baccalaureate sermon, "My Mark," was the outgrowth of a number of personal experiences.

The central idea, he explained, stemmed from the time he met Adam Geibel, famous writer of Sunday school hymns who was blinded a few days after birth, "yet lived a constructive and fruitful life."

"You too have a mark to make," the minister reiterated. "Our fathers are revered because they lived purposeful, helpful lives. The question is will anyone be around to revere us for that same reason?"

Rev. Johnston then described six types of marks and linked them to his topic.

Discussing the mark of vanishing ink, he stressed: "When lives are patterned after this it is a serious thing."

The second mark he discussed was an ink blot he noticed on a wall: "There was enough ink there had it been used purposefully it might have affected thousands; instead it was just a blot on the wall."

He urged students to live constructive lives and not merely be "blots on the wall."

The third mark he described were those on chalk drawings done by his wife's former school teacher. He related he always regretted seeing the darker shades of gray and black added to a drawing, but learned these made other colors stand out and take meaning.

"A chalk drawing is just like life," he stated. "We cannot have all laughter; we also have to accept life's heartaches and sorrows."

The fourth mark concerned a beautiful painting, which was eventually found hidden beneath the dirt and whitewash of a cellar wall.

"Customs of friends and community are likely to cause us to whitewash over our lives," he explained. He appealed to students to "go down into the cellars of your lives and chip away the dirt and replace the colorful paintings put there."

The fifth mark concerned fingerprints. "By fingerprints everyone is different, and in each case there is a job for everyone to do in the world."

The sixth mark he described stemmed from an experience while he was a University of Pennsylvania student. "Everyone received a mark. And none got out of this life without making some sort of mark."

"Make a good one," Rev. Johnston urged students. "So you can face it unashamedly and hear: 'Well done.'"

Rev. Johnston was assisted by Rev. Thomas Shoemaker, Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, Rev. Frank H. Blatt, Rev. P.N. Wohlson, D.D. Music for the service was provided by the high school orchestra under the direction of Numa Snyder.

Two More Girls Enter Names In Princess Competition

Two more contestants for Laurel Blossom Time festival princesses — one in the hotel and the other in the waitress division — were added to a steadily growing list of entries during the weekend as impact of the June 5 to June 25 celebration reached as far as Ohio in publicity and pictures.

Twenty-two different pieces of Laurel Blossom festival publicity have been mailed over Eastern United States and into the Midwest. An estimated 8,000 pieces have been placed and over 1,000 posters will be distributed throughout the fringe area of the Poconos next week, cover a 70-mile radius.

Some 250 travel agents will be getting posters. Radio stations in this area have also been enlisted in the drive to fully publicize the celebration.

Top feature of the festival will be the Laurel Blossom ball at Shawnee Inn on July 20, when Tommy Tucker's band of the year will play for dancing.

During the weekend, Walter Fossa said director of the celebration, arrangements were pushed near completion on plans for a fashion show which the festival committee will stage in conjunction with the Coronation ball. More details on the fashion show will be announced later.

An outstanding stage of screen personality is scheduled to be crowned Queen of the festival. All high school students nominated to be princesses will serve in her court.

Contestants in the office, factory, hotel or waitress classifications who submitted snapshots to Mr. Fossa, care of Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce office, Stroudsburg, will be judged for princess honors. Their photos will be in E. A. Bell Co. window, Stroudsburg, until judging is completed.

Meanwhile, persons may obtain tickets for the Laurel Coronation

Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Snyder

Miss Elizabeth Wagner, Richard K. Snyder Married

The Grace Lutheran church in East Stroudsburg was yesterday the scene of the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Jean Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wagner, of Lackawanna Ave., to Richard K. Snyder, son of Mrs. Margery Snyder, of Portland, and the late Marshall K. Snyder.

Rev. J. S. Kistler, former pastor, performed the ceremony assisted by Rev. William F. Wander, pastor of the church, at 2:30 yesterday afternoon.

The church was decorated with bouquets of white daffodils in the altar vases and baskets and jardinières of peonies and mock oranges at the side and a white aisle carpet for the processional. Miss Leila Bunnell was organist and Kennard Lewis was soloist, singing "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with a fitted bodice, with long sleeves, and a pleated skirt which ended in a train. Her finger-tip veil fell from a satin cap and she carried a white Bible with a corsage of white gardenias.

Her sister, Miss Lois Lorraine Wagner, was her maid-of-honor, and wore an orchid taffeta dress with a headband of matching flowers and she carried a colonial bouquet. Miss Elizabeth Snyder, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid and wore aqua taffeta with a matching floral headband, and carried a colonial bouquet.

Jacqueline Sue Kintner, cousin of the bride, was flower girl, and wore a pink taffeta gown with matching floral headband, and carried a basket of rose petals.

William Brodt, of Portland, was best man and John Naratel, of Palmerton, and William Wagner, East Stroudsburg, were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a dress of aqua chiffon with matching shoes and a picture hat of Navy horsehair and velvet. Her corsage was of white roses. The bridegroom's mother wore Navy blue chiffon with Navy blue accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for about 150 guests in the church parlors, which were filled with spring flowers. A three-tier wedding cake formed the centerpiece for the bride's table. Guests were from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder are now on a wedding trip to Canada. The bride wore a white and Navy taffeta dress with white accessories and a gardenia corsage. On their return they will spend the summer in Bellefonte, while Mr. Snyder attends Pennsylvania State College. A veteran of four years' service with the U. S. Navy, Mr. Snyder is in the Naval reserve and is completing his studies at Penn State.

Mrs. Snyder, who was graduated from East Stroudsburg High school in 1949, has had one year at Scranton Hospital School of Nursing, and one year at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Just put your hand over the dateline and guess what month it is. Don't need the roses bursting into bloom, don't need the wild strawberries ripening on the hillside, don't need the heat coming down like a wet, smothering blanket, to tell you that it's June.

The wedding horns are a dead giveaway, and our first Sunday in June set a pace that it will be hard to follow, with three big weddings in town, and three others from the outlying sections.

The wedding parties were so thankful that it didn't rain on their finery that they didn't notice the heat, but the wedding guests were mighty glad to get their good shoes off when they got home, I'll bet.

Except Lois Wagner, who was a bridesmaid in the afternoon and had her baccalaureate service last night, which really made a session for the family.

Two of our brides had long sleeves, so Harriet May's looked the coolest of all. And in trend with the times, our bridegrooms were either in the Army, or the Navy or had already served their term.

Oh well, maybe now we can concentrate on the last week of school, which for teachers and for pupils, too, is likely to seem the longest week of the year.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:05 a.m.

Miss Harriet May Is Bride Of Elmer Dale Taylor Here

In the presence of their families and a few college friends, Miss Harriet Cornelia May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas T. May, of East Stroudsburg RD 3, and Elmer Dale Taylor Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Taylor, of Six Mile Run, were married Sunday, June 3, at 1 p. m., in the First Presbyterian church in Stroudsburg.

Rev. Ernest T. Campbell performed the double-ring ceremony in the church, which had been decorated with three baskets of white gladioli and peonies against a background of huckleberry greens. The organ recital and the traditional wedding marches were played by Vernon C. Imbt.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of organza embroidered in tiny sprays of pink rosebuds. A matching embroidered organza stole was worn off the shoulders, and the bodice was held by a wide cummerbund of pink satin. She wore a white picture hat of horsehair with a pink satin ribbon band and carried a white Bible on which rested a bouquet of white roses. There were no attendants.

The bride's mother wore a yellow dress with a black picture hat and black accessories and a corsage of Orange Delight roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue gabardine suit with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Miss Nancy Elaine Doolittle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Doolittle, of 144 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg, and Henry F. Peters Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Peters Sr., of 141 Center St., East Stroudsburg, were married yesterday afternoon at 3 in the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian church.

Rev. Frank Wingerter performed the ceremony in the presence of the families and about 100 guests. Bouquets of white gladioli in front of the altar and sprays of mock orange on each pew decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon marquisette with a lace yoke and long sleeves. Her finger-tip veil of net fell from a lace cap, and she carried a cascade of white roses and baby breath with an orchid heart, and flowers caught in the white streamers.

She was attended by Miss Hazel Bush, of East Stroudsburg RD 2, who as maid of honor wore an aqua gown with a lace bodice and marquisette skirt. She wore a white cap and mitts and carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Glenn Fleming, of Grove St., East Stroudsburg, was the best man. Stanley Wolbert, of Elizabeth St., East Stroudsburg, and David Keller, of South Green St., East Stroudsburg, were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a light blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of orchids, while the bridegroom's mother wore rose with natural accessories and an orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the social rooms of the church which had been decorated with peonies and mock orange blossoms. There were about 100 guests and a three-tier wedding cake was served.

For their wedding trip through the New England States the bride wore an aqua linen two-piece dress with white accessories.

The bride is a teacher in the Barlett school and Mr. Jurgens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jurgens, of Langen, Germany. Nine. Lubrication system—Engine pressure lubricated. Oil cleaned by replaceable cartridge-type filter. Relief valve in crankcase limits pressure for reduced oil consumption.

Ten. Lower links—Two lower links carry implements and provide the necessary attachment for "pull".

Eleven. Top link—Top link of the Ferguson system operates with the master control spring to maintain working depth and to keep the front end of the tractor down.

Scutl Knock Out Crabgrass Without Permanent Injury

Auer's Paint Store on W. Main St., Stroudsburg, Scotts Lawn Seed store, has something really new for all you people who would like to have a nice lawn, but can't because you can't control the growth of crabgrass.

"Tony" Auer has the new development that knocks out crabgrass without permanent injury to desirable grasses. It is very easily applied . . . simply spread this dry compound evenly over the infested area at recommended time and rates.

It's called "Scutl," and it's ideal for lawns, golf courses, parks, athletic fields and all turf areas.

Used according to directions, treatments with Scutl in early summer will subdue crabgrass growth without serious discoloration to the lawn. If treatment is delayed until late summer, crabgrass plants will be larger and therefore more conspicuous, when they die and turn brown. Under some conditions, desirable grasses turn yellow but generally such discoloration is temporary and the grasses soon revive.

One series of treatments may not get rid of crabgrass completely. Some plants may be missed. Others will have sprouted following application. These are easily spotted with a small amount of Scutl. Scutl does not affect crabgrass seeds or other seeds in the soil.

Program for crabgrass control: While crabgrass starts growth in late spring, it is usually not conspicuous until July. As the weather gets hotter, the plants become coarser. July or August is the best time to inaugurate a control program with Scutl. Simply scatter material over infested area evenly at the normal rate. Repeat at weekly intervals for total of three applications.

Where does crabgrass come from? The seeds of crabgrass (watergrass, wiregrass, fall grass) are buried in most soils. Some remain dormant for years awaiting proper conditions of light, temperature and air to spring into life. Severe crabgrass infestations are usually the result of (1) introducing topsoil, humus or manures containing crabgrass seeds, or (2) self-seeding of the annual crabgrass plants by an infestation of a previous season.

The latter occurs regardless of how closely the lawn is mowed unless the plants are eliminated before they go to seed. Because of these factors, it is not reasonable to expect complete crabgrass control in one year. However, the program recommended with Scutl will substantially reduce the infestation so crabgrass will be a minor problem the next summer. Lawn food can be applied to stimulate the desirable grasses before or immediately after using Scutl. So folks, let's start the crabgrass control program today. Stop in at Auer's Paint Store, 1016 W. Main St., in Stroudsburg, and get yourself a box of Scutl, another Scott's lawn care product.

Addresses Close Annual Convention Of State Exchange Clubs

National Head, State Senator Deliver Talks

Buck Hill Falls — The 1951 convention of Pennsylvania Exchange clubs wound up business Saturday and topped off the final day with a banquet and ball at the Inn here.

National Exchange President D. Russell Bontrager spoke to members of the Exchange and their guests during the President's luncheon Saturday. He appealed to members to seek the spiritual as a means of bettering their lives and guaranteeing the progress of civilization.

Fred P. Hare Jr., State Senate majority whip, told Exchange members he has introduced a bill making it impossible for any able-bodied person between 18 and 45 to secure public assistance.

He asserted "we are teaching people to depend upon the government." He blamed the present tax program, which he declared has brought on this condition. "Greatest resources we have is the human resource," he added. "It is the only one that develops in quality and quantity with use."

Senator Hare's speech at the convention represented his second speaking engagement in Monroe county this year. He spoke this spring at a local meeting of the Pennsylvania State Education association.

Saturday afternoon memorial services were held for members of Exchange who have died during the past year. Rev. Frank W. Wingerter, pastor of East Stroudsburg Presbyterian church and member of the East Stroudsburg club, officiated.

Entertainment during the business session was provided by Miss Bettejo Goodall, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Charlotte Herman, and the Liberty Plus Twelve choral group from Liberty High school, Bethlehem.

Martin Says Mac Policies Adopted

Washington (AP)—Senator Martin (R-Pa.) said yesterday that General MacArthur's proposals have been proved sound because they "are now being adopted as the official program for the conduct of the war in Korea."

Martin, a retired major general, said also that the Senate hearings on MacArthur's ouster show that "President Truman and Secretary (of State) Acheson reversed their policy and plunged us into war without giving the military any opportunity to make plans for successful operations in Korea."

Pope Pius X Beautified At Vatican City

Vatican City, (AP)—Pope Pius X was beautified yesterday in St. Peter's basilica and later in the vast square outside. In a voice breaking with emotion, Pope Pius XII implored the new blessed to intercede with God to obtain "true and lasting peace" for the world.

Pius X, who lived and died a humble man, was the eighth pontiff to be beautified in the nearly 2,000-year history of the Roman Catholic church, the first in 279 years. Among the thousands of pilgrims present for the ceremony were nearly all the 6,000 inhabitants of the little northern Italian town of Riese, where the new blessed was born Giuseppe Sarto on June 2, 1835. He reigned as pontiff from 1903 to 1914.

The words of Pius XII—an impassioned finale of the beatification—were echoed by more than 200,000 pilgrims from many parts

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Although professional baseball has disappeared from the Monroe County scene this year, the diamond sport continues to maintain its high rate of interest with the people of this locality. Pocono A. C. is a bigger success than any of us thought possible two short months ago, while Little League baseball has established itself in Stroudsburg and will do likewise in East Stroudsburg starting next week, when that circuit opens.

Action in the Pocono Mountain League also draws the people of the rural areas to the various fields and in so doing holds up its end of the picture. However there is an unfortunate group of kids in our area that find themselves too old for Little League baseball and too young for the George N. Kemp Post American Legion club that swings into action very shortly.

The prime example of this "in between" age is Billy Sommers, a left handed pitcher, who is becoming the talk of the area more and more each day. Sommers hurled a no-hit, no-run game for East Stroudsburg Junior High school against Portland recently, then on Friday pitched the East Stroudsburg All-Stars to a 12-4 victory over an all-star aggregation from Norristown. Sommers is currently 13 years old and finds himself without a team or league on which to pitch.

However, it is quite possible that the Exchange Club may form a team of boys in this age group to campaign against similar organizations from Bangor, Pen Argyle and other towns not too distant from East Stroudsburg. Although a move of this type is being contemplated, nothing official has been announced along these lines thus far. However, a movement of this type would cover every baseball age and would give the kids an opportunity to develop into the type of player who would have an outstanding future in the game.

Speaking of Little Leagues brings to mind the fact that Norristown had 800 youngsters report for Little League tryouts in that community this year. East Stroudsburg had over 100, but managed to defeat the Norristown aggregation by a big score in the meeting of the two all-star contingents. We undoubtedly will see another East Stroudsburg all-star team in action against a group of hand-picked talent from the Stroudsburg Little League before the two circuits call it quits for 1951.

Several changes have been made in Bangor Memorial Park since the Slaters campaigned in the North Atlantic League there last year. The first base dugout is missing as are the bleacher seats which were located behind the backstop. The snow fence which limited the outfield space in left and center fields is also among the missing. West Bangor's entry in the Blue Mountain League has replaced the Slaters as tenants at the park this summer. The outfield fence at Gordon Giffels field certainly needs repairing—and badly.

Gordon Coy, former sports editor of The Daily Record, did a great job of covering the Pennsylvania Exchange Clubs Convention at Buck Hill Falls last week. Bill Sebring, former basketball and baseball star at Pocono High school, is currently a captain at Maxwell Field, Alabama. Sebring is a veteran pilot having flown "The Hump" in India during World War II. Roseto used several Bangor High players in downing Johnsonville on Friday, in a Blue Mountain League contest.

The recent release of the Pocono A. C. batting averages made public some remarkable individual figures, but then again it revealed some not-so-remarkable averages also. Joe Hricinak, a catcher and first baseman with the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College baseball team for a portion of the 1951 season, is the same Hricinak that caught for the Stroudsburg Poconos in 1946 and part of 1947, and held down a similar position with Mahanoy City in 1948 and 1949. Both Stroudsburg and Mahanoy City were members of the North Atlantic League before the circuit folded.

East Stroudsburg has delayed the opening of its Little League season to give the circuit more time to get its new field in condition to play. At least one major league scout has seen Tom Foley in action this season. Foley is the number one hurler for the Anomalink entry in the Pocono Mountain League. Foley started the 1950 season as a regular member of the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College soccer team, but Anomalink's rivals haven't been getting much of a "kick" out of Foley's air-tight hurling thus far this season.

Pocono A.C. Bows To East Bangor, 6-3

Schoonovermen Drop To Third Position

East Bangor—Pocono A. C. lost its second Blue Mountain League game of the season and dropped from first to third in the standings here yesterday, when the John Schoonover managed diamond contingent went down to a 6-3 setback at the hands of East Bangor. The host club then moved into a first place tie with Roseto, who took the measure of Portland.

The home team greeted Chet Lucki, right handed hurler who hadn't dropped a decision before yesterday, with three runs in the first and two in the third, before Schoonover relieved on the hill late in the contest. Lucki had won three games in league action thus far this season.

Pocono A.C. came to life in the sixth frame, when the visiting forces broke into the scoring column for the first time off Jack Granda, who hurled a masterful eight-hitter.

Big Blow
Dewey Marling poked a 300 foot home run over the right field fence in the seventh, with one mate aboard, to give Pocono A.C. its second and third final runs.

East Bangor touched up the combined pitching talents of Lucki and Schoonover for nine bingles, while five errors by the Monroe County contingent failed to help matters at all.

Singles by Fisher, Parsons and Eden, plus a double by Pontrelli, accounted for the first inning runs for East Bangor, while the two third inning counters came across on one hit and two costly boots in the field.

The eighth inning score was the result of a single by Fisher and a double by Eddie Snyder. Jimmy Wertheimer's single and Lucki's double scored the sixth inning run for Pocono A.C., while Don Sweda doubled ahead of Martling's homer in the seventh.

Held Wins On New Track

Harold Held, Easton, won the feature event in the opening day program at the newly constructed Delaware Valley Speedway yesterday, as an outstanding first day crowd watched the veteran stock car driver pace the field to the finish line. The new track is located at the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg airport.

Held was followed to the finish line by Otto Harwie, Carl Smith, Kunkletown; Gene Comunal, Stroudsburg; "Baer" Herman, Montigue, N. J., and Joe Cryan, outstanding stock car jockey from Oxford, N. J.

Herman captured the first heat, with Held second, Cryan third and Herman Taylor, another Stroudsburg boy, placing fourth.

Second Heat
The second qualifying grind went to Harwie, with Bob Herman second, Charley Hitterly, third and Stroudsburg's Chet Adams fourth.

Stan Metz, Easton, won the third qualifying heat, with Smith second, Comunal, fourth. Fleming drove Don Smith's car, a Stroudsburg entry.

Held also won the semi-final grind, with Harwie second, Herman third and Smith fourth.

An ambulance supplied by Dr. Searle Lanyon and driven by Dick Williams was on hand but there were no serious accidents.

The track will feature another stock car card next Sunday.

Yankees Drop Two To Tribe

Cleveland (AP)—The improving Cleveland Indians pounded out six home runs, three by Luke Easter, yesterday to twice defeat the New York Yankees, 8-3 and 4-1 and extend their winning streak to eight straight.

A crowd of 75,163, largest of the major leagues this season, watched the games.

Bob Lemon, who made one of the circuit blows, held the Yankees to four hits in winning the second contest for his fifth victory against the same number of defeats. Frank Shea was the loser.

Feller Shines
Bob Feller won the first game for the Tribe, allowing only eight hits and pitching tight ball after he weathered a two-run first inning. For the big right hander, who has lost only once this year, it was his seventh victory.

Vic Raschi, charged with the loss, gave up 11 safeties.

It marked the first time this season Cleveland has been able to defeat the Yankees, losing all four previous contests.

Three of the Indians' runs in the second game were on homers. Lemon got his in the fifth. Larry Doby led off the sixth with a four-bagger and Easter followed with his third of the day. Al Rosen's single, Jerry Coleman's error, a sacrifice and a long foul fly gave the Tribe another run before the inning ended.

Steelers Sign Pair

Pittsburgh (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League have signed 1951 contracts with Frank Sinkovitz, 230-pound center, starting his fifth year as a pro, and tackle Bill Zabo, 215-pounds, formerly of Bucknell University.

Saylorsburg—Saylorsburg ran wild to score five runs in the last two innings here yesterday and gain a 5-3 Pocono Mountain League victory over West End A. C., on the winning team's home field.

Bob Rundie, West End manager, had the contest well in hand but tired in the eighth when Saylorsburg scored two runs. Bob Feller came on the scene to hurl the ninth and was charged with the loss, as the home club tallied three times to break up the ball game.

West End had taken a 2-0 lead in the first frame and then increased its advantage to 3-0 in the fourth. However, the lead faded in the face of the strong Saylorsburg finish.

Moves Into Deadlock For First Place

Portland — Roseto A. A. moved into a tie for first place in the Blue Mountain League here yesterday with a 10-8 victory over the Portland Apollos, on the losing team's home grounds. It was the sixth win in seven outings thus far for the charges of Manager Hal Nerino.

Although there was a total of eight runs scored in the contest most of the damage was done in the last three innings.

Roseto held a 2-1 edge until that time and managed to pick up another tally on the home team as both clubs ran wild in the scoring column.

Runs
Portland scored three times in the seventh and four in the eighth, while Roseto managed to better the pace slightly with one marker in the seventh, five in the eighth and two in the top of the ninth.

Randal Ott delivered an inside-the-park home run in the seventh frame for Portland, with two mates aboard.

Nerino was banished from the game in the eighth for violently protesting a decision by the umpires.

Foley, Bush Play Major Roles As Anomalink Gains Favorable Verdict Over Pocono Lake, 5-3

Pocono Pines—A lightly regarded Pocono Lake baseball team threw a real scare into Anomalink yesterday afternoon before the latter was able to pull out a 5-3 decision here on the Tobyhanna Township High school field. Tom Foley tossed a seven-hitter for the visiting contingent, while Harold "Buddy" Blakeslee hurled an eight safety contest for Pocono Lake.

Anomalink broke the scoreless deadlock between the Pocono Mountain league foes in the second inning with a single run, while the visiting contingent broke loose for three tallies in the third and then pushed across an insurance run in the top of the eighth round.

Rally Fails
However, Pocono Lake put up a gallant fight with an outburst of three runs in the bottom of the sixth frame, at which time the home club threatened to pull the verdict out of the fire.

Melvin "Bob" Bush banged out three hits in six trips to the plate for Anomalink, including a triple, to play a major role in his team's victory.

Color Film In Three Dimensions

Dayton, O., (AP)—The U. S. Air Force yesterday demonstrated a three-dimensional color film for use on standard motion picture projectors.

Spectators ducked as steel balls, apples, pears and a tray of bottles shot out from the screen. It was so realistic that viewers although seated far from the screen, felt they could reach out and pluck a bottle from the tray.

The film strip looked any other 16mm. motion picture film. Spectators must wear special glasses to get the three dimensional effect. The development is the work of an Air Force officer Maj. Robert V. Bernier, who is attached to the Air Development Force's photographic service center at Wright-Patterson Air Force base.

Major Bernier's process, which he is disclosing publicly for the first time, is the result of 16 years work.

His process can be adapted to a conventional motion picture projector with a minimum of attachments. However, a view projector that will permit use of either two or three-dimensional films is now being developed. The Air Force taken out patents on the process in Major Bernier's name.

The medium, Major Bernier believes, may also be adapted to television without difficulty. He feels it has tremendous possibilities in both military and commercial fields also.

The idea of three-dimensional motion pictures is not new. Previously, however three-dimensional films required red and green viewing devices which merged split green images flashed on a screen. Another method used polaroid viewing devices, which Bernier also employs, but required two synchronized projectors—each flashing an image on the screen at a different angle.

Bernier employs what he terms the "alternate frame" process. Every other frame of motion picture film actually duplicates normal vision of the eyes.

Lightning Sets Off Fire Sirens, Darkens Bangor

Bangor—Electrical storm accompanying last night's rain shower caused the Bangor fire sirens to operate erratically and also threw the borough into darkness for a half hour until service company crews repaired damaged circuits.

Normal service was restored at 7:50 p. m., however.

Boys Capture Prizes At Fishing Meet

A picnic and fishing trip at Snow Hill lake, co-sponsored by the Lions club and Pocono Mountain Sportsmen's association, was enjoyed by over 100 local boys and girls.

There were fishing prizes, donated by the Lions, Pocono Mountain Sportsmen, local merchants, and members of the senior sportsmen's group.

Winners were: First prize: Harold Martz; second, Earl Warner, third, Dick Cramsey; fourth, Norman Wangman. Other winners of minor prizes were Donald Cramer, Stanley Deiter, S. Benzon, Bill Cutler, Sonny Deiber, Bill Schoonover, Johnny Gilpin, and Tommy Gross.

In addition to fishing, the boys did plenty of eating—50 pounds of hot dogs, popovers; and they drank enough soda pop to float the trout in Snow Hill lake.

Region Notes Heavy Travel Over Weekend

Motorists hits the Pocono mountains area in sizable numbers yesterday, bringing more traffic than was seen in the region on the preceding Wednesday Memorial day.

State police in Monroe counties and adjacent areas described the volume of cars on the road as moderately heavy, but certainly more than were on the highways on Wednesday.

Routes 611, 209 and 115 carried good loads of traffic all day yesterday, according to State police at Stroudsburg, Mount Pocono and Brodheadsville substations. Troopers at Milford reported fairly heavy volume on Routes 209 and Six in Pike county.

Interstate Bridge police at the covered bridge between Portland and Columbia, N. J., said lines of cars passing both ways on that span averaged 400 cars per hour at the peak intervals yesterday. A similar report was made at the Delaware, N. J., bridge.

Pennsylvania Highway department watchmen directed long lines of waiting cars over the one-way traffic stretch just west of Stateford tower, but no tieups were reported there or elsewhere.

Pressure Put On Assembly To Levy Tax

Harrisburg, (P) — The General Assembly comes back to work today after a week's vacation with the administration putting on new pressure for passage of Gov. John S. Fine's proposed $119,000,000 income tax.

A behind-the-scenes campaign was under way by Republican leaders to win favorable action soon on the Senate-stymied income levy.

The controversial measure, proposing a one-half of one percent tax on income, has been held up in the Senate Finance committee since winning House passage on April 18.

Failure of the Republican majority in the Senate to unite behind the measure has stalemated action on it in the upper chamber. Eleven of the 30 GOP senators declared opposition to the tax forcing GOP leaders to withhold it from a floor vote.

The 11 dissenting Republicans plus the 20 Democratic members all against the tax, would be more than enough to defeat the bill. A total of 26 of the 50 Senate votes are needed to pass legislation.

A host of other legislative problems also face the lawmakers when they return today to resume work. They adjourned all of last week because of the Memorial day holiday.

After completing sessions this week, they will again go home for a full week until June 14. Prior commitments by local hotels with the Order of the Eastern Star, which is holding its annual convention here next week, left no rooming space available for the lawmakers.

These delays are serving to make lawmakers in both houses yearn for a quick ending to the 1951 session. The session already has developed in the longest since 1941.

Lawmakers are complaining their regular jobs are being neglected and say also they are needed at home to help campaign for the July 24 Primary election.

This factor, plus accumulating appropriations demands, are said to be increasing the chances for favorable action eventually on Fine's proposed income tax.

Pennsylvania school teachers won House committee approval recently of a salary increase bill which will cost some $26,000,000 more than provided in the budget.

Fine says also State workers are badly in need of a cost-of-living wage boost which would cost some $10,000,000.

All of these expenses, he claims, makes passage of his $119,000,000 income tax imperative.

Vieing with the tax problem for top attention in the Legislature this week are the teacher salary bills, a proposal to set up a fair employment practices commission in Pennsylvania, and a move to exempt non-resident workers from Philadelphia's 1 1/2 per cent wage tax.

Price War Continues

New York (P) — Last week's price war between major department stores continued on one front yesterday at Gimbel's where the staff claimed Sunday telephone orders exceeded Christmas rush records.

A Sunday phone supervisor said her 14-position switchboard "lit up like a Christmas tree" when the service opened at 1 p. m. It was scheduled to continue until 5 p. m.

The supervisor said telephone shoppers were "looking for everything," including all items reduced after Macy's touched off the price war last Tuesday by reducing some 6,000 items.

Macy's action followed a Supreme court ruling upholding fair-trade law price-fixing. Gimbel's immediately followed suit and other stores quickly fell in line.

Other major warring stores, including Macy's and Bloomingdale's, were entirely shut down yesterday.

But executives of all stores were preparing for another week of price cutting.

The unanimous prediction was: "No end in sight."

An official of Abraham and Straus, big Brooklyn store, said he thought the war would continue while stocks of the price-cut items lasted.

And, he said, so far his store had no trouble on new orders to manufacturers.

Bernard Gimbel returned from a trip south and predicted the war might continue indefinitely.

Tax Ghost Revived (An Editorial)

Legislators who have been away from Harrisburg during the Memorial Day week are supposed to return today "refreshed and ready for conciliation or compromise" after a "cooling off" period, according to a mouthpiece for Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association. They are to "heel" to Gov. John S. Fine's "soak the working man" $119,000,000 income tax.

How like the "Crown Prince" of Pennsylvania Manufacturers to use the phrase "conciliation and compromise" when it costs him little or nothing. How like too many people in power to seek by devious means, after once being defeated, to cram—not economy—but spending down the throats of people who they hand-pick for a vicious, ruinous tax.

People of Monroe county have today to rush their wires to Senator Montgomery F. Crowe and all other members of the Senate demanding that "the behind-the-scenes" activity of the Fine administration be hammered down. There must be NO INCOME TAX—NO SALES TAX—just a bit of ECONOMY.

The Senate has already stopped the income tax bill once. Crowe was not only among the group that did it, but he has since shown how to escape an Income or Sales Tax by elimination of senseless expenditures. This week may be the do-or-die test period. Give him and all other senators the benefit of your support. Wire, call or write them NOW. FOR ECONOMIES—NOT TAXES.

Weather Picture Ranges From Drought To Floods, From Heat Wave To Snow

(By the Associated Press)
A heat wave, freezing cold, June snow, parched earth and floods—that was the nation's weather picture yesterday.

Heat simmered much of the East for the fourth straight day. Temperatures pushed the 100-degree mark in the Carolinas. Readings in the 90s were forecast along much of the Atlantic coast south of New England.

Truman's Letter To Atille Sent To Mossadegh

Washington (P) — A delivery mixup last week sent to Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadegh the letter President Truman had intended for British Prime Minister Clement Atille on the Iran-Britain oil nationalization controversy.

The State department confirmed the error yesterday in response to radio reports from Tehran, but said it did not make any real difference.

"The letters were not identical, being addressed to different persons," department press officer Michael McDermott told a reporter, "but there were no essential differences."

British Open Drive To Ease Oil Crisis

Tehran, Iran (P) — Britain's Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. (AIOC) opened a drive for a solution of the world-troubling Iranian dispute yesterday by offering to send representatives for "full and frank discussions."

Deputy Prime Minister Hussein Fatemi said Iran considered the offer was "an acceptance of Iran's taking over AIOC."

The billion dollar company declared, however, it was "reserving its legal rights" and did not specify the matters to be negotiated.

In London diplomatic sources said the offer did not change the British government's bid of two weeks ago for negotiations with the Iranian government, nor its appeal to the International Court of Justice at the Hague for an arbitrator to settle the dispute over Iran's right to seize the company.

The British government owns nearly 53 per cent of the stock.

2,000 Reds Killed

Saigon, Indochina (P) — French Army headquarters said yesterday more than 2,000 Communist-led Vietminh troops have been killed in the last 24 hours in efforts to smash French defenses in northern Indochina.

Bullets End Honey-Stealing Career Of 141-Pound Bear

Ross Common—A 141-pound male bear, which had successfully looted and destroyed 23 honey bee hives on lands leased by Clayton R. Buss, Madison Ave., Bethlehem, was shot down here last Friday night as Buss maintained a night vigil over the remaining hives.

The bear, with typical penchant for honey, first appeared at Buss' bee sanctuary last Wednesday night, destroying 15 hives. On the next night, the marauder returned again and ruined seven more hives in his search for sweets.

At this point Buss notified Game Protector John Doebling, of Stroudsburg, and Protector, Doebling and Protector Paul L. Fallor, of Mount Pocono, advised the apriary hobbyist to destroy the honey-eating bear after investigating the complaint and visiting the hives located just off Route 115 near Ross Common.

Buss, in the meantime, estimated that Mr. Bruin had done more than $200 damage.

The bear had already smashed 23 hives, but when he lumbered in and went to work on his 23rd one Friday night, Buss was ready for him. Several shots ended the animal's honey-stealing career.

Doebling said last night that the carcass was delivered to the county home at Kellersville, where the meat will be utilized.

C-82 Explodes In Air; Ten Crewmen Die

New Boston, Tex., (P) — A flying boxcar roared out of the clouds yesterday disintegrated as horrified citizens watched and became a flaming pyre for its ten passengers.

The C-82 exploded directly over this city and bored a burning hole into a cowpasture near Boston, 2 1/2 miles to the west.

"I saw it falling apart in the sky," said Mrs. C. W. Jones, in whose pasture it fell.

Wreckage was scattered for a mile and a half around as the wings and tail flew apart.

Pat Oglesby said lightning struck the plane.

"I heard an explosion and saw lightning at the same time," he said.

The CAA at Texarkana said the plane was from Campbell Air Force base at Hopkinsville, Ky.

It had called the CAA with a position report and flight plan to Fort Sill, Okla., at 1:26 p. m. (CST), shortly before it plunged from the sky.

"I heard the roar of the plane just as it feathered its props, said Marine Sgt. James Owens.

"Then it just fell apart. It reminded me of my days in Korea. It was horrible."

Mrs. Jones said the plane did not appear to catch fire before it struck the ground.

Oglesby said the plane's motors seemed to be at full throttle as it came out of the clouds nose first.

"From all appearances someone was trying to bail out, but I couldn't tell for sure. The fuselage fell straight into the ground, and it made a hole you could bury an ambulance in," Oglesby said.

Oglesby, a mechanic at the Red River arsenal, Beville, said the plane burned so fiercely that they couldn't get the bodies out for 30 minutes.

They saw some parachutes hanging open from the plane, while others still were in packs.

Six Of One Family Drown

Oskaloosa, Ia. (P) — Six members of one family drowned yesterday when their automobile plunged into the Des Moines river. One occupant of the car was rescued.

The bodies of Lyle Postel, 29, of Waterloo, Ia., his mother, Mrs. Namie Postel, 48, and three of Lyle's four children were recovered.

The youngsters were Richard, 7; James, 5; Mary Jean, 16, and Stanley, 2. The youngest child's body was not found.

Mrs. Dorothy Postel, Lyle's wife and mother of the children, was rescued.

Sheriff Dwight Mater of Mahaska county said an eyewitness told him that the Postel car passed a truck and semi-trailer rig on a highway bridge approach, rolled onto a soft shoulder, then struck an abutment. It bounced into the air and fell beside the bridge into the river.

Furious Battles Mark Slow Allied Advances Beyond 38th Parallel

New Survey Of Peace Chances Due

Washington, (P) — The United States, Britain and their Korean war Allies are due to start a new inquiry this week into the possibilities for an early negotiated peace in Korea.

American officials said yesterday there appears to be little that the United Nations Allies, whose representatives meet twice weekly at the State department, can do for peace which they have not already done.

The real barrier, these authorities said, is the declared purpose of the Chinese Communists to gain a total victory by throwing the U. N. Army off the peninsula.

Nevertheless top officials here and in London realize that the war has reached a point — with the belligerent forces disposed once more in the 38th parallel region — at which military and political conditions combine to make a settlement practicable if the Reds are ready for it.

Secretary of State Acheson told senators Saturday that the United States is willing to halt the fighting along the 38th parallel "if the aggression would end and you had reasonable assurance it would not be resumed."

Such a statement coming from the Communist side at this time would have been regarded as a peace feeler of the first importance. There is no reason to believe that Acheson did not so regard his own words. They threw open the door to approaches from either the Chinese Communists or the Russians. However, Acheson said yesterday he knew of no peace moves from the Communists.

About the same time there were two other important developments which promised to fill the days ahead with increasing talk of peace, whether or not it is actually achieved. These developments were:

One — Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander in Korea, announced that the "purest phase" of the victory over the Chinese Communist spring offensive had ended. Later he said there was no connection between his announcement and peace moves elsewhere in the world.

Two — From London came word that Foreign Minister Herbert Morrison considers the time right for a new look at the peace strategy of the U. N. powers. He wants them to see whether there is something they can do on the diplomatic front which might employ the present military situation in the interest of peace.

Assistant Secretary Dean Rusk, in charge of Far Eastern affairs, had recently invited the ambassadors of all 13 of the U. N. nations who are members of the Korean policy conference here to come forward with specific ideas on how to deal with the present situation in Korea.

The next meeting of this group is set for Tuesday. This week's second session will be Friday. Diplomatic authorities said that undoubtedly work will begin along lines of the British proposal in one of these meetings.

Johnston was questioned by four members of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, now holding public hearings on whether to extend the act. They were Senators Maybank (D-SC), committee chairman, Capehart (R-Ind), Bricker (R-Ohio) and Moody (D-Mich.)

Maybank asked Johnston if businessmen should not be consulted more on controls affecting them. Business witnesses, among others, have voiced a number of complaints and how they fare under price control.

Johnston replied that his office listens to their advice, and added that the Wage Stabilization board also invites the suggestions of labor and industry on wages.

He also commented that his office has no desire to control profits. Bricker commented that the excess profits law takes care of that.

Capehart wanted to know whether Johnston thought farm prices, for instance, were too high in 1947. Capehart said that farm prices today are 15 per cent less now than in 1947 and that farm income will be about $4 billion less this year than in 1947.

Johnston replied that controls, to be effective, must be just and that no segment of American enterprise can be given special privileges.

Johnston said last night that the carcass was delivered to the county home at Kellersville, where the meat will be utilized.

Allied Artillery Downs Two U.S. Cargo Planes By Mistake; Seven Men Reported Missing

Tokyo, Monday, (P) — Two U. S. twin-engined C-119 "Flying Boxcar" cargo planes were shot down by Allied artillery yesterday while trying to drop supplies to U. N. forces on the eastern Korean front.

Far East Air Forces announced the "tragic error" today and said seven men were missing. Three airmen survived. It was the first time a cargo plane has been lost on a paratroop mission.

FEAF said the big guns failed to stop firing while the planes were in the drop zone. One plane received a direct hit. It disintegrated. The second plane climbed sharply to avoid the flying debris. It was seen to loop and then plunge 3,000 feet to earth.

Capt. James Hill, Chickasha, Okla., pilot of a third plane in the flight, said many parachutes came from the two planes.

"Some of them undoubtedly were cargo 'chutes, but some of them appeared to be personnel 'chutes," Hill added.

Each plane carried a crew of five. Ground parties found the three survivors. They were not named.

The air drops to the front continued despite the incident. Less than an hour later other flights delivered 60,000 pounds of ammunition and supplies to an Allied outfit 15 miles from the first drop zone.

Senator Knowland Challenges Acheson's Assertion Use Of Chiang's Army Perils Formosa

Washington, (P) — Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) yesterday challenged Secretary of State Acheson's assertion that use of Chinese Nationalist forces in the Korean war might endanger Formosa.

But Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.) called Acheson's contention a valid one. He said it plainly has the backing of the nation's top military command.

The Pacific island of Formosa is the last stronghold of the Chinese Nationalists under Chiang Kai-shek.

The divergent views of the two senators provided a fair sample of the split that has shown more plainly day by day in a full month of inquiry into the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from command in the Far East.

The investigation by the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees began a month ago. Since then the hearing record has grown fat with more than 1,000,000 words, largely on just such disagreements—and the end is not in sight.

Today Acheson returns to the witness stand for a third day of quizzing which is likely to pivot on the Formosa issue and such other points as his testimony Saturday that a Korean settlement might be reached generally on the basis of the 38th parallel if there were real assurance of an end to Chinese and Korean Communist aggression.

MacArthur was fired for publicly advocating a program calling for bombing of Red China's supply bases, a Naval and economic blockade of China, and use of the Chinese Nationalists in the Far Eastern conflict.

A 2,625-foot peak, dubbed "Bald Mountain," was captured, lost and won again by Allied infantrymen who pushed Chinese from its heights twice.

While heavily censored, field dispatches were able to say that the eastern and western drives "were made in unison."

Retaining the initiative, Allied forces moved up slowly but steadily on the Communist "iron triangle" in North Korea — the assembly ground of two unsuccessful Red offensives in April and May.

He should have been. He planned and carried out the whole thing in the face of many troubles. Gernhardt wanted to be sure, he said, that someone didn't change the routine after his death. So he had yesterday's event recorded and hopes it will be repeated on the proper occasion. And he doesn't expect that to be for quite a spell, he told the mourners.

About 1,000 persons jammed the local armory for the event. Gernhardt, who had cooked the food and held a pre-funeral luncheon for the press and pallbearers, rode from his home to the armory in the front seat of a hearse. His pallbearers carried an empty copper casket into the building. Gernhardt followed and sat stern faced through the proceedings.

East Borough Class Hold Baccalaureate

East Stroudsburg High school seniors held their baccalaureate service last night in East Stroudsburg Junior High school.

Rev. Norman P. Savage, pastor of First Baptist church, East Stroudsburg, delivered the baccalaureate sermon.

Background of his sermon, "Anchors for the Storm," was Paul's experience on the way to Rome and how during a storm he threw out four anchors and waited for morning.

Each of the four anchors in Rev. Savage's sermon represented a different thought.

First anchor for the storm is a personal faith in God, he said. "It wasn't just a traditional faith Paul had in God. He was conscious of his purpose, confident of his power and comforted by His presence."

Second anchor, he stated, represents the presence of the unseen Christ.

The third "strength in his knowledge of his secret . . . The Lord had told Paul he would bear witness at Rome; therefore he had a destiny that was assured."

The fourth thought Rev. Savage brought out was the joy and satisfaction derived from accomplishment.

"Among other things that Paul says," Rev. Savage concluded, "are these words: 'I believe God, whose I am and whom I serve.'"

Assisting Rev. Savage during the service were Rev. Harold C. Eaton, who gave the invocation; Rev. William F. Wunder, scripture reading; Rev. Benjamin H. Hostetter, the prayer; and Rev. Frank W. Wingerter, the benediction.

Organ and piano selections were provided by Miss Bettejo Goodall and Miss Charlotte Herman. Under Miss Goodall's direction, the girls' chorus sang "Lift Thine Eyes" and the mixed chorus sang "Send Forth Thy Spirit."

East Stroudsburg High school seniors will receive their diplomas Thursday. Commencement will be held in the junior high school auditorium, beginning at 8 p.m.

Court Surcharges Area Resident

An East Stroudsburg RD man, removed as administrator of the estate of a Hellertown hermit, has been surcharged $650.73 in a Northampton county court opinion handed down by President William G. Barthold.

Frank Klingner, the discharged administrator, was surcharged for what his attorney said were duplication in credits and on interest on $4,630 at four and one-half percent.

Klingner had previously been administrator of the estate of Joseph Dugacki, the Hellertown hermit, who left a $20,000 estate after living in a barn.

Marshal Petain Is Near Death

De D'Yeu, France (AP) — Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, 95-year-old former chief of the Vichy French state, is near death again. A medical bulletin described his condition as "precarious."

The aged marshal, hero of Verdun in World War One, is serving a life sentence for treason in World War Two. Yesterday's bulletin said Petain, imprisoned on this bleak island off the west coast of France, had taken a turn for the worse in the last 24 hours and that for the first time his heart seemed to be weakening.

He had double pneumonia in April and was reported near death then.

Fear Of Lord Is Beginning Of Wisdom, Minister Tells Pocono Township Graduates

Tannersville—A sudden downpour of rain last night had little effect upon Pocono Township High school baccalaureate service. The school auditorium was filled to capacity.

Rev. Garnet L. Zimmerman, pastor of Tannersville Lutheran church, delivered the baccalaureate sermon.

"Fear of the Lord," he told seniors, "is the beginning of wisdom. 'Be careful with your new knowledge.'"

Rev. Zimmerman said behind every man's great achievement lies fear.

"Fear makes us and we begin to wonder what will happen. We begin to care," he continued.

"You must have a fear, or this world will settle down to destruction."

Rev. Zimmerman said citizens should have a fear for the future of America rather than a fear of war with Russia.

"Fear of the Lord would lead us to a better way of life. Fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom."

Rev. Zimmerman was assisted by Rev. John Ferguson, of Pocono Catholic missions, who gave the invocation and benediction; Rev. C. L. Hertzog, pastor of Evangelical United Brethren church, Meadertown, who gave the prayer and scripture reading.

Seniors, dressed in blue and white gowns, marched into the auditorium accompanied by the music of the high school band. Carmen C. Cavuto conducted.

Ann Louise Frailey sang a vocal solo, "Come Unto Him," and the school ensemble, composed of Miss Frailey, Barbara Williams, Patricia Hoffer, Harriet Learn and David Frailey, sang "Heavens Are Declaring."

Decorations for the service were done by the junior class, under the direction of George Learn Jr., class adviser, and Miss Fannie Melhuish, art instructor.

Rev. Johnston Gives Talk To SHS Seniors

Rev. Walter S. Johnston, pastor of Stroudsburg Methodist church, told Stroudsburg High school seniors last night "you have a mark to make in life."

His baccalaureate sermon, "My Mark," was the outgrowth of a number of personal experiences.

The central idea, he explained, stemmed from the time he met Adam Gelbel, famous writer of Sunday school hymns who was blinded a few days after birth, "yet lived a constructive and fruitful life."

"You too have a mark to make," the minister reiterated. "Our fathers are revered because they lived purposeful, helpful lives. The question is will anyone be around to revere us for that same reason?"

Rev. Johnston then described six types of marks and linked them to his topic.

Discussing the mark of vanishing ink, he stressed: "When lives are patterned after this it is a serious thing."

The second mark he discussed was an ink blot he noticed on a wall: "There was enough ink there had it been used purposefully it might have affected thousands; instead it was just a blot on the wall."

He urged students to live constructive lives and not merely be "blots on the wall."

The third mark he described were those on chalk drawings done by his wife's former school teacher. He related he always regretted seeing the darker shades of gray and black added to a drawing, but learned these made other colors stand out and take meaning.

"A chalk drawing is just like life," he stated. "We cannot have all laughter; we also have to accept life's heartaches and sorrows."

The fourth mark concerned a beautiful painting, which was eventually found hidden beneath the dirt and whitewash of a cellar wall.

"Customs of friends and community are likely to cause us to whitewash over our lives," he explained. He appealed to students to "go down into the cellars of your lives and chip away the dirt and replace the colorful paintings put there."

The fifth mark concerned fingerprints. "By fingerprints everyone is different, and in each case there is a job for everyone to do in the world."

The sixth mark he described stemmed from an experience while he was a University of Pennsylvania student. "Everyone received a mark. And none got out of this life without making some sort of mark."

"Make a good one," Rev. Johnston urged students. "So you can face it unashamedly and hear: 'Well done.'"

Rev. Johnston was assisted by Rev. Thomas Shoemith, Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, Rev. Frank H. Blatt, Rev. P.N. Wohlsten, D.D. Music for the service was provided by the high school orchestra under the direction of Numa Snyder.

Two More Girls Enter Names In Princess Competition

Two more contestants for Laurel Blossom Time festival princesses — one in the hotel and the other in the waitress division — were added to a steadily growing list of entries during the weekend as impact of the June 5 to June 25 celebration reached as far as Ohio in publicity and pictures.

Twenty-two different pieces of Laurel Blossom festival publicity have been mailed over Eastern United States and into the Midwest. An estimated 8,000 pieces have been placed and over 1,000 posters will be distributed throughout the fringe area of the Poconos next week, cover a 70-mile radius.

Some 250 travel agents will be getting posters. Radio stations in this area have also been enlisted in the drive to fully publicize the celebration.

Top feature of the festival will be the Laurel Blossom ball at Shawnee Inn on July 20, when Tommy Tucker's band of the year will play for dancing.

During the weekend, Walter Fossa said director of the celebration, arrangements were pushed near completion on plans for a fashion show which the festival committee will stage in conjunction with the Coronation ball. More details on the fashion show will be announced later.

An outstanding stage of screen personality is scheduled to be crowned Queen of the festival. All high school students nominated to be princesses will serve in her court.

Contestants in the office, factory, hotel or waitress classifications who submitted snapshots to Mr. Fossa, care of Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce office, Stroudsburg, will be judged for princess honors. Their photos will be in E. A. Bell Co. window, Stroudsburg, until judging is completed.

Meanwhile, persons may obtain tickets for the Laurel Coronation ball and Fashion show at Shawnee Inn June 20 by mailing their checks to Mr. Fossa at Chamber of Commerce headquarters. The tickets are $5 per person.

Latest contestants for princesses are Barbara Carlton, Glenmere Hotel, Canadensis. Miss Carlton is a hotel employee. She is 24, five-foot-two tall and weighs 117 pounds. She has brown hair and eyes.

Miss Faie Woolever, waitress at Higg's Restaurant, Stroudsburg, has also entered the contest. She is 19, five-foot-six and a half inches tall, weighs 128 and has light brown hair and blue eyes.

Road Safety Looks Up

The holiday traffic death toll of 66 for the nation has been described by the National Safety Council as a "marvelous achievement." It was far under expectations.

The number of traffic accidents ordinarily rockets in the summer. The Memorial Day toll may not be an accurate barometer, though it does heighten feelings that far-reaching safety campaigns of recent years may be having some beneficial effects. In any event, some good advice was given the other day by Col. C. M. Wilhelm, commissioner of State Police.

He said: "A driver may save his life and the lives of others by being mentally alert at all times . . . Each driver should start his trip early, drive with caution and courtesy, and leave early for the return trip."

We may live longer and so may our friends and others whom we meet on the highways and byways of Pennsylvania if we follow Col. Wilhelm's suggestions.

New Constitution?

Republican State Senators seem to be interested in bringing about a statewide vote on whether Pennsylvania should get a new Constitution.

That makes us wonder why they want a new Constitution. They don't pay any attention to the old one.

Specifically, the State Senate—and the lower House of the Legislature—has ignored for the last 20 years the requirement of the State Constitution that the districts from which Senators and House members are elected shall be reapportioned every 10 years.

The Constitution tells how to do it—after each 10-year U. S. census. We've had nose-counts in 1930, 1940 and 1950, and no reapportionment yet.

One of the present senatorial districts is clearly in violation of the Constitution, but that district has had a member in the Senate for 30 years, without question.

The Senators also seem to be in a rush about the new Constitution. At first they proposed to nominate delegates in the primary and vote on both delegates and the question of whether the Constitution should be re-written in the November Election.

The bill wasn't passed in time to allow primary campaigns for delegate nominations. So now the Senators are talking about ways of keeping the drive for a new Constitution on schedule.

One of the ideas advanced by Senator Donald P. McPherson Jr., of Gettysburg calls for nominees for delegate to be selected by political parties.

And what a constitutional convention that would be—held by hand-picked political delegates!

Another idea is to throw the delegate race wide open and let everybody run for election, without the formality of a primary.

That could have worse results.

If and when any convention is held to rewrite Pennsylvania's Constitution, it should be composed of delegates who have a clear warrant of authority from the voters.

We would need our best citizens on this job. And we would need every protection that our election system affords—plenty of time for the voters to look over the candidates and chew over the issues involved.

So the Senators had better relax about rushing us into a new Constitution. Meanwhile, they might comply with the present Constitution by working on reapportionment.

If they do that, the legislators who may in the future authorize a vote on the new Constitution would at least be elected from Constitutional districts.

The U. S. deficit for handling air mail during the past 11 years is less than the deficit from penny post cards in any one year.

In all the garish history of press agency, there has never been so frustrated a tub-thumper as Hollywood's Bill Pine, who, at a cost of infinite patience and time, trained fifty parrots to repeat clearly the title of a new Mae West film called It Ain't No Sin.

It was his intention to ship the parrots in turn to large cities where "It Ain't No Sin" was going to be premiered, counting on the unusual spectacle of fifty parrots chanting in unison to stupefy the natives and capture extra space in the newspapers. The day before the first showing of the picture was scheduled, the producer called Bill Pine to his office. "Bill," he said, "I've got news for you. Miss West has just decided to change the name of her picture to 'I'm No Angel.'"

Super-salesman of the month undoubtedly is William Glassforth who induced a farmer owning a single cow to buy an electric milking machine. Furthermore, Glassforth came away with the cow as down payment!

Hollywood—Thirteen-year-old Billy Gray has freckles, blue eyes, and a brown forelock that touches the middle freckle on his nose. He also has a very practical mind. He's saving up his earnings as a movie actor so he can become half owner of a bicycle shop some day. He already spends his spare time around it—re-spoking a wheel or repairing a coaster brake are no mysteries to Billy.

"Good business in case of a depression," he reasons with just-in-case forethought.

Billy's knowledge of the last depression, he admits, is wholly hearsay.

Meanwhile, he enjoys acting, would like to be top star, or possibly a director and producer. The bike business would be a sideline. These days Billy is busy being chum to a man from another planet in "The Day the Earth Stood Still." "As Doris Day's kid brother, he interfered with her romance with Gordon MacRae in "On Moonlight Bay."

Billy got into the movies seven years ago—he has acted in 60 or 70 pictures—through one of those freaks of filmland fate. He and his attractive mother, Mrs. Beatrice Gray, a movie bit player, were attending a little-theater performance. In the cast was Billy's older brother, Frank. But it was Billy, darting restlessly about the lobby during intermission, who caught a talent agent's eye. The agent spoke to his mother about the lovely lad's movie possibilities.

A few days later the agent took Billy to a studio where about 20 boys were being auditioned for a role. "Who's the toughest kid here?" the director asked. Billy held up his hand and said, "I am." This aggressiveness got him the role, in which he had to do no fighting.

As Athlete Jam Thorpe's son in a movie, he had his hair darkened. For his next film it was lightened. This caused playmates to call him "Peroxy!" But Billy didn't mind.

At 13, he is quite a seasoned actor. He says: "All you've got to do is look at the first scene and know what the whole picture is going to be."

In England a 14-year-old boy defeated his mother in the finals of a cake-baking contest. Our sympathies go to his Dad who must find it mighty tough remaining neutral.

Over-Committed—Although the Russell Committee started as an investigation into the dismissal of General Douglas MacArthur, it has developed into a full-dress consideration of the policies, methods, results and objectives of the administration, not only as they affect the Far East, but generally in relationship to war.

For instance, General Hoyt Vandenberg's discussion of our weaknesses in the air and his acknowledgment of the superiority of the Russian air force must have come as a shock to our people. What has been done with all the billions that have been expended out of public taxes since 1945? How has that money been used? Why did the administration let Russia get ahead of us in the air—a field in which we maintained superiority throughout World War II?

General Omar Bradley said: "It may be that right at this minute, we do have more diplomatic commitments than we can carry out militarily.

"Take the North Atlantic Treaty organization, for example: The twelve nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization do not have the capability, right now, of stopping an aggression by Russia. I don't see why that should imply, however, that we should not go on and have the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and try to encourage them to build up their security forces, because that is the way you get built up to that commitment; and I think it is perfectly proper in a case like that, to make this commitment. If you want to call it that, of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and try to build it to it."

"I agree with you that we should not just go around the world making commitments, military commitments, which we cannot fulfill; but I think it is perfectly proper, on the other hand, to make some, particularly where you are trying to build up a collective defense, and then build to it."

This part of a colloquy establishes the fact that the United States is over-committed; that it has undertaken to do more than it can do. General Bradley does not oppose this over-commitment because he feels that it has to be done that way and may pay off in the end. General Vandenberg made it clear that if we had to use our air force today, we should accomplish certain favorable results but that the United States would be stripped of air defenses.

The assumption of over-commitment is that Soviet Russia will not attack Western Europe or the United States at once; that time is in our favor in the sense that Soviet Russia will not act until 1952 or 1953 or some such date, and that the western powers will, by that date, catch up.

But suppose the North Atlantic Treaty powers do not catch up when and if Stalin should decide to strike? Then the United States might have to go it alone, or with whatever small aid we might garner in Europe. Thus far, western Europe has not produced an atmosphere of a force that stimulates confidence.

Asia we can now discount, as we have lost the best of it—namely, China. And the prospects are that the Arab states will become strictly neutral, which, from our standpoint, means pro-Russian. India, as long as Nehru is its leader, will continue to play a confused and cowardly role, designed to achieve acknowledgment of world peace or human liberty.

I think that this testimony of General Bradley is of particular significance, for while he could not have been expected to let down President Truman, Dean Acheson or General Eisenhower, he acknowledged the fact of over-commitment, which may be the source of our present difficulties. We have spread our strength so thin that it actually has become weakness.

The value of the prolonged and detailed MacArthur hearings is that it gives the country its first opportunity to see how badly off we really are.

All the testimony thus far has been convincing along these lines:

1. That we cannot make war on Soviet Russia alone with any hope for victory.
 2. That we have little expectation of immediate and satisfactory aid from our allies;
 3. That actually we have no plan of defense but are pursuing an opportunistic day-by-day program of meeting contingencies.
- This is a frightful picture our military men have painted for us.

Washington My New York

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington, June 3—Air Force General Hoyt Vandenberg's explanation of why he objected to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's plan of battle in Korea has revealed an entirely new concept of war.

By repeated assertions before the Senate committees investigating President Truman's abrupt removal of Gen. MacArthur, Vandenberg made it plain that in his opinion the Air Force should not be used unless its actions will be decisive. In other words, keep the bulk of it on the ground unless in one blow it can end the war or cripple the enemy beyond repair.

It would be interesting to hear the reflections of the other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff when they read this and another Vandenberg assertion—that our air force is the "sole deterrent" preventing Russia from attacking us. Of course, when he speaks of the Air Force he means one equipped with the atom bomb.

It is highly probable that the Army and Navy might dispute this assumption, as well as the air general's new concept that wars can only be won when the entire force of fighters and bombers strike in unison.

What particular action was decisive in winning World War II? Was it the D-Day landings? Submarine warfare against enemy shipping? Round-the-clock aerial bombardment? Or was it the supplying of Russia with the arms and ammunition that enabled her to stay in the fight?

No military historian has singled out any one of these as the decisive blow that brought victory. None ever will, it appears, since a casual brush with war history will reveal that it was a combination of all that frustrated the Germans and Japs.

Gen. Vandenberg admitted that more extensive use of air power in the Korean War, such as Gen. MacArthur advocated, would cause damage, but he said it would not be decisive. He revealed that the JCS discussed, but vetoed against, bombing the giant power reservoirs in North Korea because the action would not be "decisive."

I doubt very much that Gen. MacArthur ever informed the JCS that he thought the bombing of the power facilities in North Korea would end the war. He has testified that what he wanted was the right to use the Air Force available to him for bombing enemy supply dumps and troop concentration points in Manchuria. He said few if any more planes would be needed. The removal of United Nations shackles from the Air Force for this sole additional task would end the war more quickly, at the cost of fewer U. S. casualties.

U. S. fighter planes to this day in Korea cannot pursue Communist fighters beyond the Yalu River. Pilots cannot strafe Red airfields on the river border.

Gen. Vandenberg, questioned regarding this shackling of U. S. fighter pilots, admitted it was bad for morale but contended again that removing the shackles would not be decisive.

It can be assumed that granting pilots the right to pursue the foe until he was shot from the sky would not be decisive. But it might eliminate a few enemy jets, save a few Air Force lives and prevent a few ground strafing attacks by the foe. Just as bombing Communist troop assembly points in Manchuria would prevent some Reds from crossing the Yalu to shoot at American troops.

The general in his testimony told of one bomber that blasted 4,000 Communist troops in one concentration after they had gotten across the Yalu unmolested. He did not say whether they had been in action against U. S. forces, taking their toll of casualties, before the bomber caught up with them.

No one doubts the effectiveness of air power in modern warfare. In fact, a lot of "experts" owe the Air Force an apology for criticizing their group troop support activities in Korea. It was magnificent, an infantry general

New York—To come across the virus of ambition in a woman always is an unsettling thing for a romantic and sentimental man. In this age, such a man doesn't expect a woman to languish by the turret window waiting for the knight to arrive on schedule on his white horse, but he always is startled to come across a female who has her sights trained dead on some object more important to her than life, love or the pursuit of happiness.

Today I was unsettled twice. I came across young, unfulfilled ambition—the flames beginning to leap and crackle—at a luncheon table in the Waldorf, and then a bit later I came across older, fulfilled ambition—the embers still red, still live—in a downstairs cafe along 52nd street.

There were three of them at the luncheon table. They were part and parcel of a handful of young movie hopefuls picked out by Paramount, dubbed the Golden Circle and shipped along to New York as a publicity stunt. Some of them already had done bits and even featured parts in films already made, and for all of them, the story goes, the highest hopes are held. They are to be the stars of tomorrow.

Meanwhile, while they were getting ready for the stardust to sprinkle them, there wasn't any sense in keeping them quietly under cover, gathering dust. The Paramount people exposed them to the white glare of publicity, and because they have pretty faces and reasonable figures, it worked. They became as famous locally, as—oh, Harry Vaughan.

The ones I lunched with were Joan Taylor, Barbara Rush and Virginia Hall. Remember the names and check up in them in a couple of years. Always the cynic, I kept remembering, as I talked to them, another group of dolls with whom I made a publicity trip to Hollywood four years ago.

One's waiting on tables now, another is married and living in the suburbs with husband and baby, a third is teaching school. I would have given odds, then, that you'd be hearing about at least one of them, some day, but the dice didn't roll that way.

For a while, Joan, Barbara and Virginia talked about the assorted wonders of New York—the chic and intelligent Virginia, a blond, was born in neighboring Westchester county and was the most excited, at being back east—but then we drifted into talk of movies and acting, and they were off to the races.

Virginia asked excitedly if I'd seen Deborah Kerr's final, vivid scenes in Edward, My Son; Joan raved about Dorothy Maguire's acting; Barbara meditated on Margaret Sullivan's voice, and so on and on. You could just see it in them: Some day, God willing, the talk will be about me and my roles.

A half hour later I sat in the darkened back room of La Comedie, the subdued gin mill that once was Tony's, and listened to an amiable and talkative blues singer named Alberta Hunter tell how she left Memphis at age 12, went to Chicago and before she reached the middle teens was singing her own songs—things like Downhearted Blues and the like—for good wages in a joint called the Panama club, where she worked the upstairs section has informed me. He had just returned from 8 months on the battleground.

It seems odd, as Vandenberg puts it, that "to do a job in Manchuria you have to utilize the full strength of the Air Force," when a great deal less than full Navy and Army strength is there fighting. In fact, the Army, at JCS instructions, can afford to send trained divisions to Europe, where there is no war. The Air Force is doing the same thing, but nothing much is said about that. There are bombers on Okinawa and Japan that might be useful in Korea, albeit not decisive.

Maybe 35,000 of Chiang Kai-Shek's troops in Korea would have proved less than decisive, but they sure would have helped while a couple of enterprising singers named Bricktop and Florence Mills operated downstairs.

Bricktop, of course, went on to become one of those endless toasts of Paris; Florence Mills became New York's most famous and wistful little Blackbird before illness cut her down so sadly in mid-career.

Alberta never made that kind of name in America, chiefly because after she left Chicago for New York and was featured in a musical called How Come?, she headed for Europe and new worlds to conquer, and spent the better part of the next two decades roaming the continent.

She was in Paris, starting in the famous Chez Florence, when America began to warm to jazz and blues singing in the middle Thirties and she was off to Copenhagen or Berlin or London or somewhere by the time swing had the country here by the throat, and Benny Goodman was the great god Pan.

All Alberta did was sing—"I'm a flatfoot singer; I don't dance or charm the customers; I just stand there and sing"—and that's all Europe demands of its singers.

Looking at Life

By Erich Brandeis

Brandeis

That editorial bewails the passing of those "good old times"—and gives as an example a menu of 1870 recently dug up by Cavanaugh's Restaurant in New York City on the occasion of its 75th birthday.

A sirloin steak dinner—1½ lbs. of meat—with vegetables, rolls and butter, was 25 cents.

Or, for the same amount, one could get a five-course fish dinner, including a 5-cent tip, which was considered ample in those days.

A dozen oysters was 15 cents. In contrast the paper mentions the fact that a steak dinner in the same place today costs around $4.50, and that the steak is much smaller.

Coffee—once a penny a cup—now is 30 cents.

Oh, those good old days—when everything was cheap!

What the editorial does not mention is that in those "good old days" human values were also cheap.

The same fellow who can afford a $4.50 dinner today could hardly afford a 25-cent dinner then.

Laborers used to work for eight dollars a week—and there was no such thing as a five-day week or an eight-hour day.

One worked as long as the boss commanded, and one was glad to do whatever pay he wanted to do.

The little businessman was no better off than those who worked for him.

If he netted twenty dollars a week, he considered himself a success.

There was no such thing as "security" in those "good old days."

When you got old you didn't get any money from the government (little enough as it is today, at least you got it).

There were no such wonderful institutions as we have today. There was little thought of the poor, the sick, the unfortunate.

Those "good old days" were every-man-for-himself days.

There were no automobiles, and if there had been, the average man could not have afforded them.

Electric toasters, refrigerators, television, radio, built-in bathtubs in millions of homes? Don't make me laugh!

Sure, lots of things are wrong today. One of the easiest things in the world is to kick and complain, to be a DEFEATIST.

But to RIGHT the wrongs, don't let us look BACK and try to have those "good old days" again.

As far as I am concerned, those days belong to the dark ages.

Every new day since the 25-cent steak dinners has brought a little more light into our lives. One wonderful sign of these NEW days is that we are now AWAKE. WE SEE what is wrong and don't just suffer in silence.

If we kick loud enough and hard enough we are bound to get action and improvement.

As for me, no matter what the price, I am still much more interested in today's steak than the one they sold seventy-five years ago.

The Anti-Crime Wave

Marches On

We have gone over the recent New Jersey handling of the case of Joe Adonis and his Rover Boys and boiled down the court's decision generally to these points:

One—Senator Tobey is put on probation.

Two—Estes Kefauver gets off with a reprimand and loses his video license.

Three—Rudolph Halley is ordered to make a series of four apologies to the underworld (to be made concurrently).

Four—Senator O'Connor is put under a court order not to press any question with "A-swer yes or no."

Five—All other members of the Senate Crime Committee are let off on good behavior on a promise not to bother law-breakers, conspiring attorneys, easy-going prosecutors and gentle jurists any more.

Yeah, it seems that Mr. Adonis, a key figure in the Kefauver inquiry, and one of the top figures in the investigation, appeared before the court. He could have been put in stir for 18 years on the indictments, but he voted no.

There were parades, fireside chats, conferences, discussions, round-table talks and all that sort of thing in which the forces of law enforcement and the defendants participated yawningly. At game time under sunny skies and choosing the east goal with the wind at their backs, the defendants romped onto the field, plainly in the pink, and exuding confidence. A member of the bar assured the judge that Joe "was one of the whitest lilies in the field, that his character was of the finest and that the prosecutor was guilty of a 'vicious rotten prosecution.' (At one point it looked as if he would demand that the entire Kefauver Committee be deported for having entered the television field by jumping ship. At another, there was an indication the attorney would accept nothing less than the chair for Rudy Halley and deportation for Senator Tobey.)

After that this department left, learning later that Mr. Adonis had been voted the Most Concurrent-Sentenced Man of the Year and the Suspended-Sentence Champion for 1951-1952. He may be out of circulation quite a few MONTHS! Coming out he will lead the eligible list for election as Best-Known American Under the Care of a Probation Officer.

It's a tough life. Well, justice is justice and you can't expect to dig up a geranium in a public park, smoke in the subway, pilfer a cinnamon bun from a bakery wagon or drop a slug in a phone booth without making some retribution, can ya? (No, Senator Kefauver; you can't file a petition for parole at this time; you went into the war against crime with your eyes open.)

Mary Miller, Boyd Walker Wed At Home

Bangor — Miss Mary Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Miller Sr., of South Main St., Bangor, was married Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock to Boyd H. Walker, son of Joseph Walker, of Allentown, at the Miller home.

Rev. Hubert Newton, pastor of the Delaware Water Gap Presbyterian church performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white organza with a bridal veil, and she carried a bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Miss Joan Miller, of Montclair, as her maid-of-honor, wore a green net gown and carried a colonial bouquet of pink and yellow roses.

Thomas Walker served as his brother's best man, and Jane Ginter, dressed in organza, was the flower girl.

A reception followed the ceremony.

The bride was graduated from Bangor High school in 1945 and from Penn Hall Junior College, Chambersburg, and from Kathryn Gibbs School, New York City. Mr. Walker was graduated from Allentown High school, Muhlenberg College and Dickinson Law School. He is affiliated with his father in the firm of Tallman and Walker, attorneys, in Allentown.

On their return from a motor trip in the South Mr. and Mrs. Walker will live on North Berks St., Allentown.

Parents Group Sponsors Events For Year's End

Closing events of the school year at St. Matthew's Catholic church include several events sponsored by the Parents Association of the school. The annual school picnic will be held Tuesday, June 5, at the CLU Memorial park.

A bake sale will be held on Friday afternoon, June 8, at Wycoff's store, and the final meeting of the association will be held Monday, June 11 when returns from the bake sale will be announced and a final financial statement will be given.

At its May meeting in the school auditorium, Mrs. W. A. Anderson was elected president to succeed Dr. Frances McGarry. Mrs. Walter Peeney was elected vice president; Mrs. Anthony Alberts, secretary; and Mrs. Harry Ahnert, treasurer. Mrs. J. Stewart Swartley will continue as supervisor of the lunch room.

The wedding parties were so thankful that it didn't rain on their finery that they didn't notice the heat, but the wedding guests were mighty glad to get their good shoes off when they got home, I'll bet.

Except Lois Wagner, who was a bridesmaid in the afternoon and had her baccalaureate service last night, which really made a session for the family.

Two of our brides had long sleeves, so Harriet May's looked the coolest of all. And in trend with the times, our bridegrooms were either in the Army, or the Navy or had already served their turn.

Oh well, maybe now we can concentrate on the last week of school, which for teachers and for pupils, too, is likely to be the longest week of the year.

The Grace Lutheran church in East Stroudsburg was yesterday the scene of the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Jean Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wagner, of Lackawanna Ave., to Richard K. Snyder, son of Mrs. Margery Snyder, of Portland, and the late Marshall K. Snyder.

Rev. J. S. Kistler, former pastor, performed the ceremony assisted by Rev. William F. Wunder, pastor of the church, at 2:30 yesterday afternoon.

The church was decorated with bouquets of white daffodils in the altar vases and baskets and jardinières of peonies and mock oranges at the side and a white aisle carpet for the processional. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with a fitted bodice with long sleeves, and a pleated skirt which ended in a train. Her finger-tip veil fell from a satin cap and she carried a white Bible with a corsage of white gardenias.

Miss Elizabeth Snyder, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid and wore aqua taffeta with a matching floral headband, and carried a colonial bouquet.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for about 150 guests in the church parlors, which were filled with spring flowers. A three-tier wedding cake formed the centerpiece for the bride's table. Guests were from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

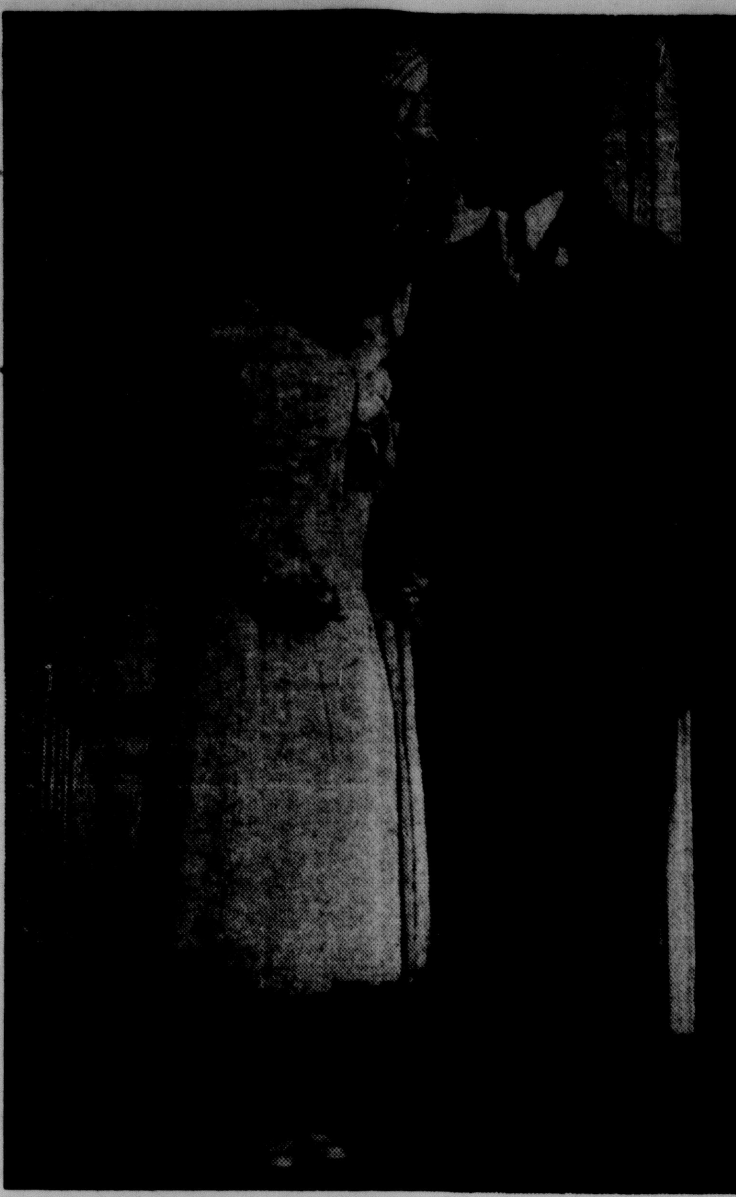

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder are now on a wedding trip to Canada. The bride wore a white and Navy taffeta dress with white accessories and a gardenia corsage. Scutl Knocks Out Crabgrass Without Permanent Injury

Auer's Paint Store on W. Main St., Stroudsburg, Scotts Lawn Seed store, has something really new for all you people who would like to have a nice lawn, but can't because you can't control the growth of crabgrass.

"Tony" Auer has the new development that knocks out crabgrass without permanent injury to desirable grasses. It is very easily applied . . . simply spread this dry compound evenly over the infested area at recommended time and rates.

It's called "Scutl" and it's ideal for lawns, golf courses, parks, athletic fields and all turf areas.

Used according to directions, treatments with Scutl in early summer will subdue crabgrass growth without serious discoloration to the lawn. If treatment is delayed until late summer, crabgrass plants will be larger and therefore more conspicuous, when they die and turn brown. Under some conditions, desirable grasses turn yellow but generally such discoloration is temporary and the grasses soon revive.

One series of treatments may not get rid of crabgrass completely. Some plants may be missed. Others will have sprouted following application. These are easily spotted with a small amount of Scutl. Scutl does not affect crabgrass seeds or other seeds in the soil.

Program for crabgrass control: While crabgrass starts growth in late spring, it is usually not conspicuous until July. As the weather gets hotter, the plants become coarser. July or August is the best time to inaugurate a control program with Scutl. Simply scatter material over infested area evenly at the normal rate. Repeat at weekly intervals for total of three applications.

Where does crabgrass come from? The seeds of crabgrass (watergrass, wiregrass, fall grass) are buried in most soils. Some remain dormant for years awaiting proper conditions of light, temperature and air to spring into life. Severe crabgrass infestations are usually the result of (1) introducing topsoil, humus or manures containing crabgrass seeds, or (2) self-seeding of the annual crabgrass plants by an infestation of a previous season.

The latter occurs regardless of how closely the lawn is mowed unless the plants are eliminated before they go to seed. Because of these factors, it is not reasonable to expect complete crabgrass control in one year. However, the program recommended with Scutl will substantially reduce the infestation so crabgrass will be a minor problem the next summer. Lawn food can be applied to stimulate the desirable grasses before or immediately after using Scutl. So folks, let's start the crabgrass control program today. Stop in at Auer's Paint Store, 1016 W. Main St., in Stroudsburg, and get yourself a box of Scutl, another Scott's lawn care product.

Addresses Close Annual Convention Of State Exchange Clubs

National Head, State Senator Deliver Talks

Buck Hill Falls—The 1951 convention of Pennsylvania Exchange clubs wound up business Saturday and topped off the final day with a banquet and ball at the Inn here.

National Exchange President D. Russell Bontrager spoke to members of the Exchange and their guests during the President's luncheon Saturday. He appealed to members to seek the spiritual as a means of bettering their lives and guaranteeing the progress of civilization.

Fred P. Hare Jr., State Senate majority whip, told Exchange members he has introduced a bill making it impossible for any able-bodied person between 18 and 45 to secure public assistance.

He asserted "we are teaching people to depend upon the government." He blamed the present tax program, which he declared has brought on this condition.

"Greatest resources we have is the human resource," he added. "It is the only one that develops in quality and quantity with use."

Senator Hare's speech at the convention represented his second speaking engagement in Monroe county this year. He spoke this spring at a local meeting of the Pennsylvania State Education association.

Saturday afternoon memorial services were held for members of Exchange who have died during the past year. Rev. Frank W. Wingerter, pastor of East Stroudsburg Presbyterian church and member of the East Stroudsburg club, officiated.

Entertainment during the business session was provided by Miss Bettejo Goodall, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Charlotte Herman, and the Liberty Plus Twelve choral group from Liberty High school, Bethlehem.

Martin Says Mac Policies Adopted

Washington (AP)—Senator Martin (R-Pa.) said yesterday that General MacArthur's proposals have been proved sound because they "are now being adopted as the official program for the conduct of the war in Korea."

Martin, a retired major general, said also that the Senate hearings on MacArthur's ouster show that "President Truman and Secretary (of State) Acheson reversed their policy and plunged us into war without giving the military any opportunity to make plans for successful operations in Korea."

FISHERMAN'S CAR SNAPS POLE—It wasn't a fishing pole, but an East Stroudsburg public service pole, which was broken when the car of Richard K. Geyer, Bethlehem area angler, jumped a N. Courtland St. curb yesterday. The car (at left above) was extensively damaged about the front end, while the heavy upright (shown at the right) had to be lashed into position awaiting permanent repairs today. Damage to wires leading from fire alarm box caused impromptu false alarm. (Daily Record Photo).

Outboard Motor Sets Off Chain Of Events That Spell Trouble, Expense For Fisherman

A Bethlehem fisherman, who spent hours on Lake Wallenpaupack struggling with a faulty outboard motor, fell asleep on his return trip, and his car smashed into and splintered a service pole yesterday on East Stroudsburg's N. Courtland St., in front of the Maplehurst lot above East Stroudsburg High school.

Richard K. Geyer, 23, of Bethlehem RD 4, was homebound in his 1946 light sedan when the accident occurred at 4:45 p. m. The car veered to the side of the street, mounted the curb, then struck the pole.

Pope Pius X Beautified At Vatican City

Vatican City, (AP)—Pope Pius X was beautified yesterday in St. Peter's basilica and later in the vast square outside. In a voice breaking with emotion, Pope Pius XII implored the new blessed to intercede with God to obtain "true and lasting peace" for the world.

Pius X, who lived and died a humble man, was the eighth pontiff to be beautified in the nearly 2,000-year history of the Roman Catholic church, the first in 279 years. Among the thousands of pilgrims present for the ceremony were nearly all the 6,000 inhabitants of the little northern Italian town of Riese, where the new blessed was born Giuseppe Sarto on June 2, 1835. He reigned as pontiff from 1903 to 1914.

The words of Pius XII—an impassioned finale of the beatification—were echoed by more than 200,000 pilgrims from many parts of the world. They filled St. Peter's square, from the steps of the basilica—where a temporary altar was placed—to the broad Via della Conciliazione that leads into the square.

As Pope and people prayed, floodlights sharply illumined a bronze and crystal casket that held the preserved body of Pius X.

Both front fenders, headlights, front bumper and the grill were damaged to the extent of $250. A Metropolitan Edison crew, sent to the scene by Theodore R. Henning, district manager, told police that damages to the pole and wires will run to approximately $125.

Because the pole carried the fire system wiring and an alarm box as well, the upright, which had been splintered from its base, was anchored erect by a special splice and extra guy wires.

A new pole will be set in place today, the repair crew said.

Officer Quick said no charges were preferred against Geyer, but he will be held liable for the damages to the pole and wires.

Kunkletown Gains Decision

Tannersville Becomes Fifth Victim, 14-4

Tannersville — Kunkletown registered its fifth victory without a defeat in the Pocono Mountain League here yesterday afternoon, with a convincing 14-4 win over Tannersville, on the Pocono High school field. It was the second loss in four starts for the home team, after Tannersville had topped its first two outings in succession.

Seven errors proved costly to the Tannersville club, as Kunkletown battered three hurlers for 15 hits and the coveted victory.

Hurlers Hit
Kunkletown picked up four runs off Dick Peechacka in the first frame and continued the assault against Carl Hennings in the fifth and sixth and came up with three more against Art Youngken in the eighth. However, the three tallies in the eighth frame were setup by boots in the field.

Tannersville in the meantime touched Ed Ziegenfuss for two markers in the first and one in each of the third and fourth rounds.

The home team had overcome its four-run deficit at the end of the first frame and deadlocked the score at the end of four innings of action. However, Hennings and the Tannersville club couldn't stop the Kunkletown contingent in the fifth and sixth rounds, as the visiting team built its winning margin.

Phils Sweep Pair From Pirates

Philadelphia (AP) — Gran Hamner's first grand slam of his career sent the Philadelphia Phillies to a 8-3 victory over Pittsburgh in the second game of a doubleheader yesterday. The Phils also won the first 11-2.

Big Frame

Hamner stepped to the plate with the bases loaded and no one out in the sixth, and walloped Murry Dickson's toss into the left field stands to give the Phils a 5-3 lead which they never relinquished. It was the Pirates' eighth

Florida Driver Triumphs At Sunrise Speedway

Blacklee—"Speedy" Dawson, transplanted stock car jockey from Tampa, Fla., won the feature event here at Pocono Sunrise Speedway, before the smallest crowd of the season yesterday.

Joe Mushlitz, Bethlehem, came home in second place, while Grant Moulthrop, Lehigh, finished third; Stan Lindbuckler, Mountain Top, came home fourth, and Bof Schalhamer, Drums, finished fifth. The time for this event was 9:17.1.

First Heat

Mushlitz also won the first qualifying heat in 3:51.8, with Bob Ferdinand, Drums, completing the six-lap affair in second place.

Bill Propst, Allentown, Allentown, and George Natt, Sugar Loaf, were third and fourth respectively.

The second qualifying heat went to Lindbuckler, in 4:05.06, with Mushlitz second; Ferdinand third, and Moulthrop fourth.

Natt won the eight-lap consolation grind in 4:48.04, with Mushlitz second, Lindbuckler third, Ferdinand fourth and Dawson fifth.

There was also a special event for pleasure cars in yesterday's program and first place laurels in the six-lap affair went to Jack Cook, Drums, in 5:61.05. George Perdue, owner of the track and a resident of Nanticoke, came home in second place, while Schalhamer was third and Jim Smith, Honesdale, was the number four finisher in the special event.

The size of yesterday's crowd was reduced due to the opening of several new tracks in Monroe county and surrounding areas.

A larger crowd is expected to be on hand next week, when the Sunrise Speedway resumes its weekly Sabbath day program. Many of the headlines that appeared on yesterday's program will be back at the half-mile dirt oval to try their luck once again and shoot for the top prizes.

Tobyhanna Takes Measure Of Lake Harmony

Tobyhanna—Roy Franks paced a 24-hit attack that gave Tobyhanna a 17-7 victory over Lake Harmony on the Coolbaugh High school field, as the two Pocono Mountain league foes clashed for the first time this season yesterday.

Franks drilled out a home run and a pair of doubles in five trips to the plate. The circuit smash was a drive into the woods in deep center field, as the home club scored in every inning with the exception of the fifth.

Big Days

John Weirich and Stan Deubler each delivered four safeties in five trips to the plate for the winning aggregation, as every regular in the Tobyhanna lineup batted out at least one safety.

The home club picked up four runs in the first frame and held the upper hand the remainder of the distance, as Al Schoch scattered 14 Lake Harmony hits well enough to escape with only seven runs scored against the youthful right hander.

Color Film In Three Dimensions

Dayton, O., (AP)—The U. S. Air Force yesterday demonstrated a three-dimensional color film for use on standard motion picture projectors.

Spectators ducked as steel balls, apples, pears and a tray of bottles shot out from the screen. It was so realistic that viewers although seated far from the screen, felt they could reach out and pluck a bottle from the tray.

The film strip looked any other 16mm. motion picture film. Spectators must wear special glasses to get the three dimensional effect. The development is the work of an Air Force officer Maj. Robert V. Bernier, who is attached to the Air Development force's photographic service center at Wright-Patterson Air Force base.

Major Bernier's process, which he is disclosing publicly for the first time, is the result of 16 years work.

His process can be adapted to a conventional motion picture projector with a minimum of attachments. However, a view projector that will permit use of either two or three-dimensional films is now being developed. The Air Force taken out patents on the process in Major Bernier's name.

The medium, Major Bernier believes, may also be adapted to television without difficulty. He feels it has tremendous possibilities in both military and commercial fields also.

The idea of three-dimensional motion pictures is not new. Previously, however, three-dimensional films required red and green viewing devices which merged split green images flashed on a screen. Another method used polaroid viewing devices, but required two synchronized projectors—each flashing an image on the screen at a different angle.

Bernier employs what he terms the "alternate frame" process. Every other frame of motion picture film actually duplicates normal vision of the eyes.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

FOR MONDAY, JUNE 4, 1951

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Not over-stimulating rays at best. Be alert, ready to grasp going on. Successes that appear. Smart thinking will help considerably, but don't take chances with your money.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A little daring could be effective if indulged sensibly, not in foolhardy way. Don't spoil what could be happiness and good productive day with sharpness, short answers.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Your natal planet sends good rays for worthy tries, and especially for sound business matters. Be on the job, don't let others influence or interfere with your well planned ideas.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Another excellent business and general day. And you can make the headway in social, personal and romantic affairs. P. M. seems best suited for lighter things. Get heavy work finished early.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Good period for most essential matters related to the public, foods, manufacturing, transportation. Increase your stock pile for the "rainy days," in cash, knowledge, worthy friends.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Some real hard effort, penetration into what's what in the world about you will get you the results. Aim to make ends meet; day highly favors your type of endeavor.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Promising outlook for the sincere, energetic worker, the one who will set aside personal pleasure for greater gain. Be true to those who have honestly sacrificed for you.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)

—You may have to do a little extra, and something you care little about, but in the end it will benefit. A gracious, considerate attitude will mean most today, and no anxiety.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — It's hardly propitious for self-esteem, though it may tempt, as may questioning others unnecessarily, which builds unfriendliness. Be cooperative and on the cheerful side.

December 24 to January 23 (Capricorn) — Running concurrently are good and adverse influences, and for different endeavors. Be alert, shrewd in choice and you can be one of the fortunate ones. Relax, too, have some fun, January 24 to February 23 (Aquarius) — Change course, shift plans when things don't look right or better means are available. Be long on smiles, short on doubts. Hear out the other fellow, but use your judgment, too.

February 24 to March 23 (Pisces) — Be up to date, I mean literally. You can put over a fine day's achievement. Be a rescuer, one who sees things and judges without emotionalism.

YOU BORN TODAY? Quick, at times seem silly, but be annoyed with those who do not accept all ideas. Gemini is full of good ideas, sometimes talks volubly. You are often into everything and should tell yourself to take it easier, one can do only so much. You dislike dishonest methods. Are mobile, can adapt yourself to various types of work and pastimes. Seldom fret over past; are generous; never hostile to take care of loved ones. At times difficult to understand. Can make a high mark if you live up to the better you. Birthdate: George III, king of England; Rosalind Russell, actress.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 6. If the number is less than 6, add 6. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. Region Notes Heavy Travel Over Weekend

Motorists hits the Pocono mountains area in sizable numbers yesterday, bringing more traffic than was seen in the region on the preceding Wednesday Memorial day.

State police in Monroe counties and adjacent areas described the volume of cars on the road as moderately heavy, but certainly more than were on the highways on Wednesday.

Routes 611, 209 and 115 carried good loads of traffic all day yesterday, according to State police at Stroudsburg, Mount Pocono and Brodheadsville substations. Troopers at Milford reported fairly heavy volume on Routes 209 and Six in Pike county.

Interstate Bridge police at the covered bridge between Portland and Columbia, N. J., said lines of cars passing both ways on that span averaged 400 cars per hour at the peak intervals yesterday. A similar report was made at the Delaware, N. J., bridge.

Pennsylvania Highway department watchmen directed long lines of waiting cars over the one-way traffic stretch just west of Stateford tower, but no tieups were reported there or elsewhere.

Mrs. J. M. Stark of Wilkes-Barre was here last week getting her summer home ready for occupancy.

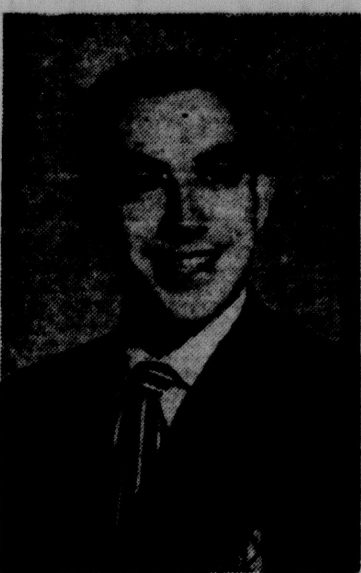

Many people from this place attended the Memorial day services held at the Pocono Lake Cemetery Wednesday morning.

A week ago it was reported in these items Dr. Knoblock had sold her home here. The correspondent had been misinformed and regrets the error.

Friends of Mrs. Kenneth Straub Jr., are pleased to learn that since being a patient at the Lehigh Hospital her condition is much improved. Her mother, Mrs. Allen Waltz called on her Wednesday afternoon.
